Guards Crush Mental Patients' Revolt

Five-Prong Attack Quells 15-Hour Riot

Tear Gas, Clubs, Bulldozer Used; Hostages Rescued

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)— A five-pronged, coordinated attack by 125 trained prison guards broke open a barricaded wing at the U.S. Medical Center Tuesday and crushed a 15-hour revolt by 106 mentally unbalanced inmates.

Five guards who had been held hostage and threatened with death were rescued. Only one of them, Robert B. Rosendahl, 38, was injured. He suffered a scalp cut.

An unannounced number of the rioting prisoners were injured.

The revolt started shortly before 10 p.m. Monday night and was all over a few minutes after 1 p.m. Tuesday.

The attacking force was composed of 100 guards employed at the center and 25 rushed here from the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan. Their only weapons were tear gas and clubs.

Bulldozer Leads Offensive

They used a bulldozer to break into the barricaded wing—known as "10 North" — from one end. Cutting torches and bolt cutters were used by some of the attackers. Guards' keys were used on other doors to the cell block. Some barricades of steel bars erected by the prisoners were torn down by hand.

William L. Fitch, 45, a guard and spokesman for the hostages, said the uprising was disorganized and launched on impulse by seven ring leaders. He called one of them "Taylor" but authorities did not further identify the man.

Fitch said he and the other hostages—Rosendahl; Charles R. Allen, 48; Melvin C. Jung, 57; and Leonard Appleby, 55—thought they were going to be killed even in the final five minutes before they were freed. He said they were specifically threatened with death three times and that twice Monday night he overheard some of the inmates say: "Let's kill them and get it over with."

Armed With Knives

Fitch said the first indication he had that something out-of-the-ordinary was brewing came about 9:30 p.m. Seven men who had been taking advantage of recreation facilities on a sunporch told him they were ready to "come out." In prison terminology, that meant they wished to return to their individual cells for the night. Fitch said this was unusual because prisoners usually do not leave sunporches until required to at 10 p.m.

Fitch said he went upstairs to

21 Americans Feared Dead In Hotel Fire

Famous Resort At Stalheim, Norway, Swept By Flames

STALHEIM, Norway (AP)—An early morning fire roared through the famous old wooden resort hotel here Tuesday. It is believed 24 persons were killed, most of them Americans.

Seven were known dead and 17 marked missing. Late Tuesday night police gave up the search for the missing saying all probably had perished in the fire.

No list of dead or missing was available. Reports indicated, however, that 21 victims were American, 2 Canadian and 1 Dutch.

Witnesses said the flames burst out with an explosive sweep. The cause of the fire was not determined.

More than 100 guests, most of them American tourists, were forced to flee in their night clothes, leaving money, passports and luggage behind.

35 Persons Injured

Thirty-five persons were injured.

An accurate count of the number of guests missing was lacking. Authorities said the hotel's list of guests was lost and many survivors had left town.

One estimate was that 130 guests were Americans. Representatives of the U.S. Embassy in Oslo and a number of travel agencies headed here to aid the stranded tourists.

The director of the hotel, Kaare Toenneberg, set the number of missing at about 17. The county police in Bergen said they could not confirm this.

The fire was believed to have started in the second floor of the woodn, three-story hotel. Most of the guests in the 99-room building were asleep.

Georgia Man Hero

A Georgia hotel man, one of the Americans booked in the hotel, helped hold down the death toll by calling on his years of training in arousing guests and employes.

Horace Caldwell, 66, on a European tour with his wife, was awakened about 3 a.m.

"I ran down the corridor and screamed all I could and continued down in the lobby where one of the hotel employes came running and helped to set the fire alarm working.

"I then helped arouse other hotel employes."

Caldwell said he and his wife were two of only three guests who managed to escape with their clothes. They shared garments with fellow tourists, many of whom had to face the chilly Norwegian night in night clothing.

Housing Bill Sent To Ike

House OKs Legislation, Courts Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, flying in the face of a veto threat, Tuesday sent President Eisenhower a $1,375,000,000 housing bill his aides call too costly.

A 241-177 roll-call vote completed congressional action on the compromise measure. The Senate passed it Monday by a 56-31 vote. In both houses the margin of passage fell short of the two-thirds majority that would be needed to override a veto.

The House action found 222 Democrats and 19 Republicans voting for passage. Opposed were 126 Republicans and 51 Democrats, many of them Southerners.

The bill was wrapped up for delivery to the White House a few hours after Budget Director Maurice H. Stans told the Senate Finance Committee "I would recommend a veto." Monday, Housing Administrator Norman P. Mason indicated he would do likewise.

Original Bills Slashed

The compromise was worked out by a Senate-House Conference Committee after the Senate, on the first go-round, had passed a $2,675,000,000 bill to cover a six-year program and the House had approved a $2,100,000,000 bill for three years.

Eisenhower originally proposed a $1,650,000,000 housing program—nearly 300 million bigger than the final compromise. But Eisenhower envisioned spreading those funds over six years while the compromise is for a two-year program.

Democratic leaders had persuaded the conferees to chop back the money totals so Eisenhower would sign the bill. But Republicans still called it too expensive. Conversely, some Northern Democrats were unhappy because some programs were trimmed. They regarded this as a repudiation of party pledges.

Slum Cleanup Section Hit

The bill carries authorizations for the government's varied housing programs. Many of its provisions were not in dispute, including additional home mortgage insurance authority for the Federal Housing Administration. This is not a charge against the budget.

A major section that drew much of the GOP fire calls for 900 million dollars in grants over the next two years to help cities clean up slums and blighted areas. Eisenhower had asked for $1,350,000,000 to be spaced over six year.

Annexationist Design Blocks Berlin Accord

Secretary Assails Khrushchev, Soviet 'Upside-Down' Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter called on Moscow Tuesday night to give up its dream of taking over West Berlin if it wants to negotiate a peaceful settlement of the German problem.

"The United States will never compromise the freedom of the brave people of West Berlin who have placed their faith in our protection," Herter said in a radio-television report to the nation.

He discussed the diplomatic deadlock with Russia after six weeks of Big Four foreign ministers' talks at Geneva on Germany's future.

President Eisenhower, Herter said, will continue to shun any summit conference with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev until some degree of progress is recorded in lower-level talks.

"Regretfully no such progress has yet been registered at Geneva," Herter said. Aiming his words directly at Moscow, the secretary said the critical question is whether Russia will persist in a determination to annex West Berlin with its 2¼ million free Germans. If so, he said, no agreement is possible with the Kremlin."

"Upside-Down Talk"

"However, if the Soviets do not hold to this annexationist design, we should be able to reach agreement on Berlin consistent with the honor and interest of all our countries," he said.

Herter appealed to Khrushchev to give "serious second thought" to Western proposals for unifying Germany. Moscow has turned these down, he said, with "upside-down talk" without even considering them as a basis for discussion.

Herter blamed Khrushchev for turning the Geneva talks into a futile exercise by his frequent speeches reiterating Soviet threats against the West.

Herter gave no hint that the Western allies are ready to make new concessions to the Soviets in order to preserve existing Western rights in divided Berlin.

Although he said "no significant progress was made" at Geneva, Herter said the talks "revealed possible areas of agreement concerning specific arrangements for Berlin."

Herter did not elaborate on this.

Not Giving Up Fight

"I believe that it may be possible to build on these areas of agreement if the Soviet Union is prepared to accept the continued existence of free West Berlin under Western protection," he added tersely.

Herter vowed to continue diplomatic efforts to find an acceptable German settlement with the Soviets.

"The United States will never compromise the freedom of the brave people of West Berlin who have placed their faith in our protection," he said.

"Our fate and the fate of the people of West Berlin and that of free people everywhere are linked together. When their freedom is diminished, our freedom is inevitably diminished."

Herter denounced the Soviets for what he described as "upside down talk" in claiming that their proposal to end Allied rule in West Berlin would make the Western sector a "free city."

As a matter of fact, Herter said, the Soviet proposal "would take what is now in fact a free city and make it like East Berlin which is now in fact a slave city."

Freed Fuchs Flies Behind Iron Curtain

LONDON (AP) — Klaus Fuchs, the master spy who gave the Soviet Union the atom bomb secrets, was released from prison Tuesday and flew off to Communist East Berlin.

The tall, bespectacled scientist, whose betrayal of Western atomic secrets hastened the day of Soviet nuclear parity, was flown off on a one-way ticket behind the Iron Curtain within hours of his discharge from Wakefield Prison.

Fuchs had served 9 years and 3 months of a 14-year sentence. As a docile prisoner, he earned a one-third reduction in sentence for good behavior.

Scotland Yard dispatched him in a haze of cloak-and-dagger secrecy. Not for a moment was the 47-year-old, German-born Fuchs permitted to tread British soil in freedom.

Rumors had flooded the country that Fuchs was secretly released Monday. But it was not until 8:05 Tuesday morning that police smuggled him out of prison and whisked him off in a closed car on the 180-mile drive to London airport.

Squads of security men were strung out at the airport to guard Fuchs right up to the moment he boarded a Polish airliner bound for East Berlin.

Not until the plane was airborne did the British government formally announce that Fuchs had been released.

His arrival in East Berlin was reported by ADN, the East German news agency.

$22,932 For Violin

LONDON (AP)—A Stradivarius violin sold at auction Tuesday for a record $22,932. A dealer in musical instruments bought it. It was put up for sale by a Geneva diamond merchant.

Dominican Invaders Reported Wiped Out

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (UPI) — A Cuban-supported invasion force against the Dominican Republic has been crushed in an "inferno of fire" and every one of its members killed, authoritative military sources reported Tuesday night.

The sources said the invasion aboard two launches flying the U.S. Flag was intercepted off the Dominican coast by Navy ships and Air Force planes which sank the two vessels. Those members of the expedition who made it to shore were hacked to death by farmers with razor-sharp machetes, it was reported.

There were no details of the time of the landing. Reports from New York, Miami, Havana and Caracas, Venezuela, more than a week ago said revolutionary uprisings had started against the government of strongman Gen. Rafael Leonidas Trujillo. His government denied the reports at the time.

Cuba's Fidel Castro has vowed to see Trujillo toppled, and it was charged here that Cuban frigates escorted the invasion force to within 70 miles of the Dominican Republic.

The sources said undercover agents aboard the Cuban ships kept the Trujillo regime informed of every move the attackers made.

Capt. Enrique Jimenez Moya, identified as the leader of the expedition, was killed while fleeing from Dominican army patrols through the hills surrounding the town of Constanza in the center of the country. His body and the bodies of at least six other members of the expedition, were recovered, the sources said.

USW's Policy Group To Meet

NEW YORK (AP)—The Steelworkers Union Tuesday summoned the union's 171-man Wage Policy Committee to a meeting here Thursday to consider the deadlocked steel contract negotiations.

David J. McDonald, the union's president, announced the move. He declined to give any particular reason but said "we always have them in when we get close to the deadline."

Present contracts expire a week from Wednesday with an industry-wide strike threatened on July 1.

McDonald declined to comment on any possible extension of present contracts.

Both McDonald and the industry's chief negotiator, R. Conrad Cooper, said neither side had exchanged specific offers as yet with negotiations already in their eighth week.

Rumors persisted, however, that the union had made a package settlement proposal last Friday. Cooper, in response to questions on this, said the industry had received no reasonable offer that it could consider.

Dominican Plane Forces American AF C47 To Land

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—An Air Force plane with nine men aboard was forced to land Tuesday by another aircraft, "presumably from the Dominican Republic," the Air Force reported.

The plane landed at Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic, then took off for Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, its destination.

Maj. Kenneth Grine, public information officer at Patrick Air Force Base, issued the following statement on the incident: "An Air Force C47 from Patrick Air Force Base en route from Ramey Air Force Base, Puerto Rico, to Guantanamo Naval Air Station, Cuba, was directed to land today by another aircraft presumably from the Dominican Republic.

"The plane landed at Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic, and after refueling took off for Guantanamo. The Air Force is investigating the incident through the Department of State and diplomatic channels."

Long Summons 16 Witnesses To Friday Hearing

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Gov. Earl K. Long of Louisiana Tuesday called on 16 witnesses to appear at a hearing by which he hopes to free himself at week's end from a state mental hospital.

The governor's wife, who signed the application commiting him to Southeast Louisiana Hospital, and Lt. Gov. Lether Frazar, the reluctant politician who wants no part of the acting governor's job, were among the 16.

Hospital bulletins Tuesday noted little change in the 63-year-old governor's condition, still listing him as satisfactory. But administration leaders — none of whom wanted to be identified — told The Associated Press privately they were concerned the governor might die.

Long has a weak heart—he had a coronary attack several years ago—and last week a psychiatrist contended persons suffering from paranoid schizophrenia may get fatally excited.

Joe Arthur Sims, top man among four attorneys scheduled to represent Long at the habeas corpus hearing in Covington Friday, said he thought he could win a favorable opinion from Dist. Court Judge Robert Jones without calling any witnesses.

One of the chief contentions in the application for the hearing was that Long was not given the type of examination dictated by state laws before the was confined to the hospital at Mandeville.

Dr. Chester Williams, coroner for East Baton Rouge Parish and Dr. Sparkman Wyatt, Baton Rouge psychiatrist, examined Long in an automobile for about 45 minutes last Thursday. The examination came after deputies apprehended Long two hours after he skipped out of Ochsner Foundation Hospital in New Orleans. Previously he had agreed to voluntary treatment there.

Long battled deputies in profane resistance before he was driven to Mandeville.

Youth Gives Up In Kidnap Case

ATLANTA (AP)—A 17-year-old former Chicago boy surrendered to police Tuesday shortly after he was indicted on a charge of kidnaping a 7-year-old girl.

Police had been searching for Raymond McMahon since last Friday when he allegedly enticed Sally Carroll into his car and drove off.

Mrs. Robert E. Carroll Jr., mother of Sally, made a dramatic rescue of her daughter by ramming the abductor's car with her station wagon after a two-mile chase.

McMahon appeared at the police station Tuesday afternoon with an attorney, William Schley Howard. Howard said he was told the boy had spent most of the time since the incident at the home of his grandmother in suburban East Point, or in woods nearby.

McMahon had been living with his grandmother since his arrival from Chicago about two months ago.

Quebec Applauds Elizabeth, Philip

QUEBEC, Canada (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip came to Quebec Tuesday. They landed at the historic cove where Gen. James Wolfe put ashore his forces for the battle on the Plains of Abraham 200 years ago.

Thousands jammed the narrow streets of Old Quebec to watch the pageantry and cheer and applaud the Queen and her husband as they stood in the open back of their royal car, smiling and waving.

Five Men Die In B52 Crash

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — An eight-jet B52 bomber manned by a five-man Boeing Airplane Co. crew crashed Tuesday near Burns, Ore., during a low-level experimental flight, the company announced. All aboard apparently perished.

Names of the crew were withheld.

The B52, assigned to Boeing by the Air Force for the series of low altitude test flights, had been scheduled to fly 500 feet above the ground on a U-shaped course from The Dalles, Ore., to Malheur Lake and Burns, then turn north to Walla Walla, Wash.

The company said the bomber failed to report after passing over the check point at The Dalles at 11:30 a.m. It took off from Boeing Field here at 11:05 a.m.

The low level tests had been in progress since April.

Cop's Long Watch Pays Off In Bombers' Capture

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A patrolman's 24-hour watch on a farm house paid off Tuesday when he and another officer captured two brothers wanted in St. Louis for a bombing and burglary attempt.

James F. Hecker, 23, and Joseph Hecker, 17, offered no resistance when surprised at an uncle's home. Two sticks of dynamite, capped and fused, were found in their station wagon.

James admitted they were involved in an attempted burglary at the St. Louis Arena last Sunday but denied they ever carried homemade bombs set to go off when their arms were raised.

"This is erroneous information these people in St. Louis have been propagating," he said later. "Why I even deactivated the bomb for the police today."

Patrolman James Robinson and Lt. James Wyatt found him hiding behind boxes at the home of D. F. Jones. Joseph was trapped on the roof.

Robinson had been watching the home after St. Louis police notified officials here the brothers might be heading for Kentucky.

Another brother, Gerald, 20, was cornered Sunday in the St. Louis Arena bowling alley. Police said James and Joseph escaped after tossing a bomb that blasted a hole in the wall.

"The one mistake we made was we all ran in the same direction," James said. "We didn't get anything out of the bowling alley. The watchman surprised us."

He and Joseph were charged with vagrancy and held for St. Louis authorities.

'Satchmo' Stricken With Pneumonia

SPOLETO, Italy (AP) — Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong, who trumpeted his way to world fame, rested in a hospital of this central Italian town Tuesday night, stricken with pneumonia.

The great Negro jazz artist was at first believed to have suffered a heart attack. His condition was not considered grave.

Earthbound 'Spacemen'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Six earthbound "spacemen" passed their fifth day of isolation in a simulated space ship Tuesday in a test of oxygen breathing apparatus for duration flights beyond the earth's atmosphere.

The six are volunteers from various departments of the Naval Air Materiel Center. They are scheduled to end their "flight" next Friday.

Johnson Offers President Legislative Olive Branch

WASHINGTON (AP)—Brushing aside criticism from some Democrats, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas offered anew Tuesday to cooperate with President Eisenhower on a legislative program.

Johnson said that, as far as he is concerned, "If we have a choice between political issues and achievement, we will choose achievement."

"We are not going to indulge in a lot of political byplay. We will stay here until we get the job done," he said.

Johnson told the Senate he doesn't know how long this session will last. "That will depend to a great extent on whether the President is willing to cooperate with the Congress—as I believe Congress will be willing to cooperate with the President."

Johnson's determination to cut spending bills back to the point where he believes Eisenhower may not veto them has been assailed by Sen. Joseph C. Clark (D-Pa) and other self-styled liberals. Clark contends the Democrats should pass their own more expansive program to write a record for the 1960 elections. If the President vetoes them, Clark said, compromises then could be considered.

Clark's views apparently are shared by some other Democratic senators who have been talking about drafting a program of their own.

Johnson's efforts to reduce spending totals drew no cheers from the Republicans. Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he doesn't think the reductions Johnson helped sponsor in a compromise housing bill went far enough to avoid a veto.

Justice Turns Down Starkweather's Plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Charles Evans Whittaker of the Supreme Court Tuesday denied a new request for a stay of execution for Charles Starkweather, condemned Nebraska slayer of 11 persons.

Justice Whittaker acted a short time after receiving a request, in the form of a typewritten petition, filed by two Washington attorneys. The justice had no comment.

The Nebraska Supreme Court earlier set Thursday as the new execution date.

The full US. Supreme Court rejected a petition Monday which asked a review for Starkweather. The rejection was unanimous and was without comment.

Freed Fuchs Flies Behind Iron Curtain

LONDON (AP) — Klaus Fuchs, the master spy who gave the Soviet Union the atom bomb secrets, was released from prison Tuesday and flew off to Communist East Berlin.

The tall, bespectacled scientist, whose betrayal of Western atomic secrets hastened the day of Soviet nuclear parity, was flown off on a one-way ticket behind the Iron Curtain within hours of his discharge from Wakefield Prison.

Fuchs had served 9 years and 3 months of a 14-year sentence. As a docile prisoner, he earned a one-third reduction in sentence for good behavior.

Scotland Yard dispatched him in a haze of cloak-and-dagger secrecy. Not for a moment was the 47-year-old, German-born Fuchs permitted to tread British soil in freedom.

Rumors had flooded the country that Fuchs was secretly released Monday. But it was not until 8:05 Tuesday morning that police smuggled him out of prison and whisked him off in a closed car on the 180-mile drive to London airport.

Squads of security men were strung out at the airport to guard Fuchs right up to the moment he boarded a Polish airliner bound for East Berlin.

Not until the plane was airborne did the British government formally announce that Fuchs had been released.

Dominican Invaders Reported Wiped Out

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (UPI) — A Cuban-supported invasion force against the Dominican Republic has been crushed in an "inferno of fire" and every one of its members killed, authoritative military sources reported Tuesday night.

The sources said the invasion aboard two launches flying the U.S. Flag was intercepted off the Dominican coast by Navy ships and Air Force planes which sank the two vessels. Those members of the expedition who made it to shore were hacked to death by farmers with razor-sharp machetes, it was reported.

There were no details of the time of the landing. Reports from New York, Miami, Havana and Caracas, Venezuela, more than a week ago said revolutionary uprisings had started against the government of strongman Gen. Rafael Leonidas Trujillo. His government denied the reports at the time.

Cuba's Fidel Castro has vowed to see Trujillo toppled, and it was charged here that Cuban frigates escorted the invasion force to within 70 miles of the Dominican Republic.

The sources said undercover agents aboard the Cuban ships kept the Trujillo regime informed of every move the attackers made.

Capt. Enrique Jimenez Moya, identified as the leader of the expedition, was killed while fleeing from Dominican army patrols through the hills surrounding the town of Constanza in the center of the country. His body and the bodies of at least six other members of the expedition, were recovered, the sources said.

USW's Policy Group To Meet

NEW YORK (AP)—The Steelworkers Union Tuesday summoned the union's 171-man Wage Policy Committee to a meeting here Thursday to consider the deadlocked steel contract negotiations.

David J. McDonald, the union's president, announced the move. He declined to give any particular reason but said "we always have them in when we get close to the deadline."

Present contracts expire a week from Wednesday with an industry-wide strike threatened on July 1.

McDonald declined to comment on any possible extension of present contracts.

Both McDonald and the industry's chief negotiator, R. Conrad Cooper, said neither side had exchanged specific offers as yet with negotiations already in their eighth week.

Rumors persisted, however, that the union had made a package settlement proposal last Friday. Cooper, in response to questions on this, said the industry had received no reasonable offer that it could consider.

Dominican Plane Forces American AF C47 To Land

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—An Air Force plane with nine men aboard was forced to land Tuesday by another aircraft, "presumably from the Dominican Republic," the Air Force reported.

The plane landed at Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic, then took off for Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, its destination.

Maj. Kenneth Grine, public information officer at Patrick Air Force Base, issued the following statement on the incident: "An Air Force C47 from Patrick Air Force Base en route from Ramey Air Force Base, Puerto Rico, to Guantanamo Naval Air Station, Cuba, was directed to land today by another aircraft presumably from the Dominican Republic.

"The plane landed at Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic, and after refueling took off for Guantanamo. The Air Force is investigating the incident through the Department of State and diplomatic channels."

Youth Gives Up In Kidnap Case

ATLANTA (AP)—A 17-year-old former Chicago boy surrendered to police Tuesday shortly after he was indicted on a charge of kidnaping a 7-year-old girl.

Police had been searching for Raymond McMahon since last Friday when he allegedly enticed Sally Carroll into his car and drove off.

Mrs. Robert E. Carroll Jr., mother of Sally, made a dramatic rescue of her daughter by ramming the abductor's car with her station wagon after a two-mile chase.

McMahon appeared at the police station Tuesday afternoon with an attorney, William Schley Howard. Howard said he was told the boy had spent most of the time since the incident at the home of his grandmother in suburban East Point, or in woods nearby.

McMahon had been living with his grandmother since his arrival from Chicago about two months ago.

Long Summons 16 Witnesses To Friday Hearing

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Gov. Earl K. Long of Louisiana Tuesday called on 16 witnesses to appear at a hearing by which he hopes to free himself at week's end from a state mental hospital.

The governor's wife, who signed the application commiting him to Southeast Louisiana Hospital, and Lt. Gov. Lether Frazar, the reluctant politician who wants no part of the acting governor's job, were among the 16.

Hospital bulletins Tuesday noted little change in the 63-year-old governor's condition, still listing him as satisfactory. But administration leaders — none of whom wanted to be identified — told The Associated Press privately they were concerned the governor might die.

Long has a weak heart—he had a coronary attack several years ago—and last week a psychiatrist contended persons suffering from paranoid schizophrenia may get fatally excited.

Joe Arthur Sims, top man among four attorneys scheduled to represent Long at the habeas corpus hearing in Covington Friday, said he thought he could win a favorable opinion from Dist. Court Judge Robert Jones without calling any witnesses.

One of the chief contentions in the application for the hearing was that Long was not given the type of examination dictated by state laws before the was confined to the hospital at Mandeville.

Dr. Chester Williams, coroner for East Baton Rouge Parish and Dr. Sparkman Wyatt, Baton Rouge psychiatrist, examined Long in an automobile for about 45 minutes last Thursday. The examination came after deputies apprehended Long two hours after he skipped out of Ochsner Foundation Hospital in New Orleans. Previously he had agreed to voluntary treatment there.

Long battled deputies in profane resistance before he was driven to Mandeville.

Quebec Applauds Elizabeth, Philip

QUEBEC, Canada (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip came to Quebec Tuesday. They landed at the historic cove where Gen. James Wolfe put ashore his forces for the battle on the Plains of Abraham 200 years ago.

Thousands jammed the narrow streets of Old Quebec to watch the pageantry and cheer and applaud the Queen and her husband as they stood in the open back of their royal car, smiling and waving.

The royal yacht Britannia sailed into the harbor with signal flags flying and bands playing.

Cop's Long Watch Pays Off In Bombers' Capture

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A patrolman's 24-hour watch on a farm house paid off Tuesday when he and another officer captured two brothers wanted in St. Louis for a bombing and burglary attempt.

James F. Hecker, 23, and Joseph Hecker, 17, offered no resistance when surprised at an uncle's home. Two sticks of dynamite, capped and fused, were found in their station wagon.

James admitted they were involved in an attempted burglary at the St. Louis Arena last Sunday but denied they ever carried homemade bombs set to go off when their arms were raised.

"This is erroneous information these people in St. Louis have been propagating," he said later. "Why I even deactivated the bomb for the police today."

Patrolman James Robinson and Lt. James Wyatt found him hiding behind boxes at the home of D. F. Jones. Joseph was trapped on the roof.

Robinson had been watching the home after St. Louis police notified officials here the brothers might be heading for Kentucky.

Another brother, Gerald, 20, was cornered Sunday in the St. Louis Arena bowling alley. Police said James and Joseph escaped after tossing a bomb that blasted a hole in the wall.

"The one mistake we made was we all ran in the same direction," James said. "We didn't get anything out of the bowling alley. The watchman surprised us."

He and Joseph were charged with vagrancy and held for St. Louis authorities.

'Satchmo' Stricken With Pneumonia

SPOLETO, Italy (AP) — Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong, who trumpeted his way to world fame, rested in a hospital of this central Italian town Tuesday night, stricken with pneumonia.

The great Negro jazz artist was at first believed to have suffered a heart attack. His condition was not considered grave.

Earthbound 'Spacemen'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Six earthbound "spacemen" passed their fifth day of isolation in a simulated space ship Tuesday in a test of oxygen breathing apparatus for duration flights beyond the earth's atmosphere.

The six are volunteers from various departments of the Naval Air Materiel Center. They are scheduled to end their "flight" next Friday.

Johnson Offers President Legislative Olive Branch

WASHINGTON (AP)—Brushing aside criticism from some Democrats, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas offered anew Tuesday to cooperate with President Eisenhower on a legislative program.

Johnson said that, as far as he is concerned, "If we have a choice between political issues and achievement, we will choose achievement."

"We are not going to indulge in a lot of political byplay. We will stay here until we get the job done," he said.

Johnson told the Senate he doesn't know how long this session will last. "That will depend to a great extent on whether the President is willing to cooperate with the Congress—as I believe Congress will be willing to cooperate with the President."

Johnson's determination to cut spending bills back to the point where he believes Eisenhower may not veto them has been assailed by Sen. Joseph C. Clark (D-Pa) and other self-styled liberals. Clark contends the Democrats should pass their own more expansive program to write a record for the 1960 elections. If the President vetoes them, Clark said, compromises then could be considered.

Clark's views apparently are shared by some other Democratic senators who have been talking about drafting a program of their own.

Johnson's efforts to reduce spending totals drew no cheers from the Republicans. Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he doesn't think the reductions Johnson helped sponsor in a compromise housing bill went far enough to avoid a veto.

Justice Turns Down Starkweather's Plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Charles Evans Whittaker of the Supreme Court Tuesday denied a new request for a stay of execution for Charles Starkweather, condemned Nebraska slayer of 11 persons.

Justice Whittaker acted a short time after receiving a request, in the form of a typewritten petition, filed by two Washington attorneys. The justice had no comment.

The Nebraska Supreme Court earlier set Thursday as the new execution date.

The full US. Supreme Court rejected a petition Monday which asked a review for Starkweather. The rejection was unanimous and was without comment.

Five Men Die In B52 Crash

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — An eight-jet B52 bomber manned by a five-man Boeing Airplane Co. crew crashed Tuesday near Burns, Ore., during a low-level experimental flight, the company announced. All aboard apparently perished.

Names of the crew were withheld.

The B52, assigned to Boeing by the Air Force for the series of low altitude test flights, had been scheduled to fly 500 feet above the ground on a U-shaped course from The Dalles, Ore., to Malheur Lake and Burns, then turn north to Walla Walla, Wash.

The company said the bomber failed to report after passing over the check point at The Dalles at 11:30 a.m. It took off from Boeing Field here at 11:05 a.m.

The low level tests had been in progress since April.

Coroner Confirms TV's 'Superman' Killed Self

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Coroner Theodore Curphey Tuesday night agreed with an earlier police finding that television's "Superman," actor George Reeves, killed himself.

A complete autopsy was performed in response to a contention by Reeves' mother that the 45-year-old actor's gunshot death a week ago Tuesday may not have been a suicide.

Friends said Reeves was despondent because 105 "Superman" episodes had been completed and he could find no other work.

Meanwhile, a top movie executive's wife said Reeves left her most of his estate so she could continue charitable work in which they had been active.

Monday his will, filed for probate, showed he had left his home, car and money to Toni Mannix. She is the wife of Eddie J. Mannix, vice president of Loew's Inc., and former manager of MGM. Reeves' fiancee, Lenore Lemmon, got nothing.

A friend said any money Mrs. Mannix gets from Reeves' estate —its value was listed only as in excess of $25,000—will go to charity.

Reeves' mother, Helen Lescher Bessole, said in Galesburg, Ill., she doesn't think her son killed himself. She added that she may contest his will.

Reeves' mother retained famed Hollywood criminal lawyer Jerry Giesler to investigate.

A native of New Haven, Conn., he came to the Washington area with his family when he was a child.

He was active in Montgomery County government until 1949 when the county shifted to the county - manager system. With that change he lost three jobs: County commissioner, suburban commissioner, and county police commissioner.

For many years he had been in the real estate business. Since 1955, however, he had been in semi-retirement.

Marilyn's Hubby Finally Admits She Had Surgery

NEW YORK (AP)—An operation on film star Marilyn Monroe Tuesday touched off several hours of confusion, with her doctor and her husband issuing contradictory statements.

The precise nature of the surgery wasn't immediately revealed, but it appeared to be of a minor nature.

The commotion began when Lenox Hill Hospital quoted the actress' physician, Dr. Mortimer Rodgers, as saying she had undergone a gynecological operation at 8 a.m. No details were given but Miss Monroe's condition was termed excellent.

Later her husband, playwright Arthur Miller, through a press agent, denied any operation had been performed. This statement added that Miss Monroe had not been feeling well several days, entered the hospital Monday for observation and would be out by the end of the week.

When the hospital was informed of this, a spokesman reiterated that the original information came from Miss Monroe's doctor and that there was no change.

Subsequently the spokesman reported he had contacted Miller, and that Miller acknowledged his wife had undergone "corrective surgery." There was no amplification in this instance, either.

Task Of Picking Gambling Trial Jurors Slowed

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Seven prospective jurors were dismissed Tuesday in the tax evasion trial of eight alleged big-time gamblers.

Five members of the original 12-man panel were excused for cause, and two were turned down by peremptory challenges by government attorneys.

The government is allowed six peremptory challenges and the defense 10, besides those jurors who are excused for stated cause.

The veniremen who were dismissed will be replaced Wednesday and questioning will continue.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Cale J. Holder took over the questioning of prospective jurors himself. He concentrated his questions mainly on whether they had heard anything about an alleged multimillion-dollar gambling syndicate.

Judge Holder had refused Monday to move the trial of eight alleged operators of the syndicate to another district, saying he knew of no "vacuum tube or utopia where newspaper publicity has not reached."

Some 200 wealthy bettors and bookies from all over the country are being subpoenaed as witnesses for the trial, which the government calls the biggest criminal tax prosecution in history.

The eight accused men are charged with evading the 10 per cent federal excise tax on $3,263,150 in bets on football and baseball games in 10 weeks' operation in Terre Haute in the fall of 1957.

Defense Plan Wins First Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's new air defense proposals have been given conditional approval on their first test in Congress, Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss) said Tuesday.

Plans for a cutback in the rival Army Nike-Hercules and the Air Force Bomarc antiaircraft missiles have been fitted into a military construction bill, he said.

Stennis is chairman of a Senate Armed Services subcommittee which has been working with Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy and other top Pentagon leaders on the new air defense proposals.

"There has been an understanding that the Department of Defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff would again review the entire air defense program before new construction is started," Stennis said in a statement.

"Sites for actual construction will be selected on strictly a military priority base."

This indicated that future Nike-Hercules and Bomarc installations probably will be concentrated around Strategic Air Command bases and other military centers, rather than large urban centers.

McElroy has told congressional committees that cutbacks in these ground-to-air missiles over the next several years should save about $1,400,000,000.

Adenauer And Erhard Make New Peace Pact

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard made the second peace pact in 12 days Tuesday in their running fight over future leadership of West Germany.

Their bewildered Christian Democratic followers then announced hopefully this was the end of a painful episode that had cost the party prestige, split the nation at a critical time and cast doubt at home and abroad on the stability of German democracy.

The 83-year-old Adenauer and the 62-year-old Erhard made their peace in an exchange of letters. The trouble blew up over statements by Adenauer questioning Erhard's ability to handle the job of chancellor.

A special session of the 271 Christian Democratic members of Parliament approved a motion of confidence in both men. Neither Adenauer nor Erhard was at the session.

A Hamburg publisher, who is a leading critic of Adenauer's conduct, earlier had vainly proposed a motion of censure against the Chancellor.

The floor leader, Heinrich Krone, announced the party and the two men consider the question settled.

"Finally we can write 'The end' to this dispute," he said.

It took two meetings and two letters from the Chancellor to appease Erhard's injured feelings.

The row started when Adenauer suddenly reversed his decision to run for the ceremonial post of president. Instead he decided to stay on as chancellor and made some remarks about Erhard's unsuitability as his successor.

lock the men in and Jung went downstairs. Fitch said that when he unlocked the door to the cell block and stepped inside, he discovered a man standing on each side of the door, both armed with knives. He said they ordered him to put up his hands and said: "Don't make any noise and you won't get hurt."

They took his keys and locked him in a cell for about 45 minutes. After that they took him downstairs where he found the four other hostages. He said about 50 or 75 prisoners were milling around the cellblock. During the night, Fitch said the prisoners brought them some bread and milk, but once or twice one of them would put the point of a knife to his back, causing him to fear for his life.

The guard said he thought the prisoners primarily were after publicity, although they voiced some demands.

"They wanted to be turned loose at all times in the cell block and never locked up in their cells," the slight, dark-haired guard related as he puffed nervously at a cigaret. "They wanted to be allowed to watch 10 or 12 hours of TV instead of the present 6 hours a day."

Adenauer And Erhard Make New Peace Pact

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard made the second peace pact in 12 days Tuesday in their running fight over future leadership of West Germany.

Their bewildered Christian Democratic followers then announced hopefully this was the end of a painful episode that had cost the party prestige, split the nation at a critical time and cast doubt at home and abroad on the stability of German democracy.

The 83-year-old Adenauer and the 62-year-old Erhard made their peace in an exchange of letters. The trouble blew up over statements by Adenauer questioning Erhard's ability to handle the job of chancellor.

A special session of the 271 Christian Democratic members of Parliament approved a motion of confidence in both men. Neither Adenauer nor Erhard was at the session.

A Hamburg publisher, who is a leading critic of Adenauer's conduct, earlier had vainly proposed a motion of censure against the Chancellor.

The floor leader, Heinrich Krone, announced the party and the two men consider the question settled.

"Finally we can write 'The end' to this dispute," he said.

It took two meetings and two letters from the Chancellor to appease Erhard's injured feelings.

The row started when Adenauer suddenly reversed his decision to run for the ceremonial post of president. Instead he decided to stay on as chancellor and made some remarks about Erhard's unsuitability as his successor.

lock the men in and Jung went downstairs. Fitch said that when he unlocked the door to the cell block and stepped inside, he discovered a man standing on each side of the door, both armed with knives. He said they ordered him to put up his hands and said: "Don't make any noise and you won't get hurt."

They took his keys and locked him in a cell for about 45 minutes. After that they took him downstairs where he found the four other hostages. He said about 50 or 75 prisoners were milling around the cellblock. During the night, Fitch said the prisoners brought them some bread and milk, but once or twice one of them would put the point of a knife to his back, causing him to fear for his life.

The guard said he thought the prisoners primarily were after publicity, although they voiced some demands.

"They wanted to be turned loose at all times in the cell block and never locked up in their cells," the slight, dark-haired guard related as he puffed nervously at a cigaret. "They wanted to be allowed to watch 10 or 12 hours of TV instead of the present 6 hours a day."

State Scholarships On Tentative Loan Basis Suggested By St. John's Prexy

BALTIMORE (AP) — Some college scholarships paid for by the state ought to be put on a tentative loan basis to be repaid by teaching in Maryland schools, the president of St. John's suggested Tuesday.

Dr. Richard B. Weigle's proposal was received with considerable interest by a Legislative Council committee which learned the state's so-called system of "teaching scholarships" is a hit and miss proposition.

Dr. Weigle himself admitted that St. John's College, which is eligible to accept state scholarship teaching money, doesn't even have a department of education and its graduates may qualify as teachers only with emergency certificates.

The state Legislature authorized 608 scholarships in 1956 designed to cope with a shortage of teachers. Recipients were supposed to post a bond guaranteeing they would teach for at least two years in Maryland after graduation.

The bond is only $500 and the Legislative Council committee found out its performance is not being enforced. In some cases of teaching scholarships predating the 1956 program, it is being ignored, they were told freely by college administrators.

Dr. Wiegle recommended that the Legislature consider adopting an approach of a new federal program of college scholarships. The amount paid by the state for a student would be considered a loan with a certain amount to be "forgiven" for each year taught after graduation.

As it is now, said J. Harold Hooper, vice president of Hood College, a student may accept four years of state-paid education and on "graduation day, walk in, hand us a check for $500 and her obligation is fulfilled."

Many of the students accepting the teaching scholarships don't even have to forfeit the $500, the Legislative Council Committee heard.

Dr. Lowell Ensor, president of Western Maryland, reported that "no one is willing to accept the responsibility of enforcement or collection of the forfeit."

Administrators of other colleges concurred in his feeling that the institution fulfilled its responsibility of accepting the bond and do not want the authority to follow up after graduation.

It was hinted the job should be done by the State Department of Education which helps administer the teaching scholarship program.

Dr. Ensor suggested that scholarship recipients also be required to maintain academic grades above mere passage and that some reform be made in their selection by state senators.

The senators award approximately 800 scholarships in addition to the 608 supposedly limited to future teachers. The total program costs close to one million dollars.

The Legislative Council committee's purpose, according to Del. Lee (D-Montgomery), is to "try to put the whole system on a firm basis and not too far away from the law."

The committee was formed after the 1959 Legislature was offered proposals to increase the number of state scholarships. They were tabled when the present system was described as a hodge-podge.

Dr. Weigle proposed that the state go back to its original conception of giving some colleges outright grants of money plus offers of scholarship money directly to students.

The student, who would select his college, would be given the money on the basis of his academic talent and financial need.

"It worries me," Dr. Weigle said, "that some students awarded state scholarships have parents who could easily pay."

Under the present system, each senator has a certain number of scholarships to each college. Some award them by their own method, others with help of county school boards, some after competitive exams and still more allow the institution to make the selections.

Virtually all of the colleges testifying, St. John's, Johns Hopkins, Maryland Institute, Washington, Western Maryland and Hood, urged that the state should appropriate enough money to equal the actual costs of educating scholarship students.

They claimed the state appropriations now are less than charged those students without scholarships and all are lower than actual costs.

The Legislative Council committee will hear next Tuesday night from state operated institutions such as the teacher colleges.

Montgomery Council Airs Road Problems With SRC

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Montgomery County Council met with the State Roads Commission Tuesday to discuss its highway problems.

The council also asked the commission to "clear with us" any additions, deletions or changes in its program for Montgomery County roads.

It was the first meeting between the new roads commission and county officials at the agency's swank new office near downtown Baltimore.

John B. Funk, the commission chairman and Maryland director of highways, said there will be others, covering every county, as well as field trips by commission members.

Mrs. Stella B. Werner, president of the county council, read the commissioners a three-page statement outlining Montgomery highway needs.

It suggested this priority:

1. Early completion of the University Boulevard project, 6.17 miles of which was to have been improved during the first four-year phase of the state's 12-year roads program started in 1953. The program has become a 15-year plan and 5.8 miles of the project have been completed or put under contract. The council said it was "particularly concerned" about the section southwest of Viers Mill Road, which will receive a greater traffic load next fall, when a new shopping center opens at the intersection of the boulevard and the road.

2. A review of a project to dualize Old Georgetown Road from Wisconsin Avenue to Bells Mill Road. The council said this had been changed so that, instead of two 34-foot-wide lanes, the commission planned only a 48-foot wide road.

3. Extension of River Road westward at least to Toldsboro Road. The council expressed disappointment that the project originally called for improvement of a 2.4-mile section in the first four-phase of the master program but apparently had been whittled down to a .7-mile job from the District of Columbia line to Brookside drive.

4. "Early action" in the construction of the Southwest leg of U. S. 240 to the Potomac River and the bridge at Cabin John.

"The council asks that the commission review its road improvement program for Montgomery County," said Mrs. Werner.

"The tremendous increase in traffic, particularly on the radials to and from the District of Columbia makes such a review appropriate at this time."

Expressing gratitude for work already undertaken by the commission, she added the council feels there is "still nothing to relieve the rush hour congestion through the Bethesda Business district, lower Connecticut Avenue and on Georgia Avenue between Wheaton and Silver Spring.

W.Md. Crops In Need Of Rain

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Farmlands in Western Maryland and the Delmar Peninsula need rain, the Crop Reporting Service said Tuesday.

Most sections of the north central and Southern Maryland areas have had adequate soil moisture, the service said in its weekly crop summary.

In addition to the lack of precipitation, vegetables on the Peninsula took a beating last week from wind and blowing sand. Cucumbers, watermelons, cantaloupes, tomatoes and snap beans were hard hit.

The service said that the harvest of summer apples probably will start in Delaware in July 1 and in the Hancock area around July 3-10.

Methodist Church Ministers Feel They Work Long Hours For Inadequate Pay

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI) — The ministers of the Methodist Church, the nation's largest Protestant body, feel they work long hours for inadequate pay, but if they had it to do all over again, they still would be clergymen.

At least two out of every five Methodist ministers perform janitorial tasks in their churches.

A third of them complain there is at least one layman in every congregation who tries to "boss the preacher around."

Almost to a man they believe laymen should assume more responsibility in running churches and that they could occasionally even conduct Sunday morning services.

And while most like to wear robes in their pulpits, they spurn the clerical collar for everyday dress.

Cross-Section Survey

These are some of the results of a nationwide survey of a cross-section of 163 Methodist ministers scientifically chosen to represent every age and type.

The study was conducted by the Department of Research and Survey of the National Missions of the Methodist Church Board of Missions at the request of the National Methodist Town and Country Conference.

The Rev. Dr. Robert L. Wilson, a research specialist and assistant director of research and survey, analyzed the results, and reported that the sample studied was an adequate representation of all the 24,000 ordained Methodist clergymen who serve 9.5 million members of 39,000 churches.

Wilson said there were many widely different answers to the question of how many hours a week the ministers worked. This raised a question, he said, as to what ministers consider to be their work.

Work Week Varies

One man may consider attending Parent-Teacher Assn. meetings as part of his pastoral duties, while another may regard attendance as a civic responsibility, Wilson said.

Most of the ministers claimed to work 50 to 69 hours a week. Twelve said they worked less than 40 hours and 17 reported they put in work weeks of 80 or more hours.

The greatest proportion of all the ministers received less than $5,000 a year in salaries and regarded their incomes as inadequate. Fewer than 4 per cent made $7,500 or more. Nine men received less than $2,000.

The expression "I don't give a continental" originated after the Revolutionary War. The Continental Congress paper money was practically worthless due to the lack of a sufficient gold reserve.

Future Course Of Big 4 Talks Is Speculated

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

A plugged nickel will easily get you a plugged dime's worth of opinion about the future course of East-West diplomatic negotiations.

Some say Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's recent statements indicate an intention to try to frighten the West's leaders into a summit conference despite the breakdown at Geneva.

Among those holding this opinion are some who think the Soviets are less eager on this point now, being willing to wait for developments in the political division which has recently developed in West Germany, and in the dispute between the United States and France.

Others expect the Soviets to make some gesture indicating that since Khrushchev has proved himself right about the inability to reach agreements at lower levels, he is now prepared to do some bargaining at the top level.

The British are still inclined to think this is a good idea, though somewhat shaken by the totality of the Geneva impasse.

France and the United States are convinced that the whole Kremlin objective is engulfment of West Berlin by Communist-controlled East Germany, something they will not permit.

The possibility of any Western policy changes between now and the resumption of the Geneva talks seems small.

The best bet is that the West, which has succeeded for seven months in stalling off a crisis over Berlin, will cling to the tactics which have proved successful so far. These are to display complete firmness about staying in Berlin, and to talk, talk, talk.

A test may come when and if the West German Parliament meets in Berlin July 1 to elect a new president. The East German Communists have threatened to blockade the city if the West Germans go through with their announced intention. Johnson Fits In Tough Spot – Riding Herd On Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sometimes you just have to cry and cry over the terrible problems facing that old Texas sheepherder, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson.

As Democratic leader, Johnson has the chore of driving, coaxing, bullying his flock along so that some work, or a reasonable facsimile, can be completed.

Now it's hard to get agreement on anything in Washington. But here's one spot where opinion seems almost unanimous. Editorial writers, pundits and the senators themselves say Johnson does a good job.

Oh, occasionally some senator bleats out that the sheepherder isn't asking the sheep where they want to go. And there's always baa-baa-baaing in the old corral over when the shearing, or vote-counting, should take place.

But Johnson is recognized, even by the complainers, as a canny politician, a master of a difficult and demanding craft.

Naturally Johnson doesn't object to this flattering picture.

But recently he seems to be worrying that maybe the impression is too fixed, that maybe everyone is assuming that this is all easily done with mirrors.

At any rate, he has been on his feet again and again. Sometimes sorrowfully, sometimes humorously, sometimes petulantly, he makes this point: riding herd on the Senate isn't easy.

And the way he explains it, it isn't.

Let's suppose the Senate is sauntering toward a vote on a controversial appointment. Why doesn't it talk itself hoarse, pick a date, and vote?

Simply because, Johnson says, each senator has a different idea of when that great day should be, and each wants to be here for it.

"Last week I had Thursday and Friday suggested," he told the Senate. "This week I had Tuesday suggested. Now Wednesday, Thursday and Friday are suggested. Now I think perhaps we may reach a vote this Saturday."

But no. Once again Johnson was too optimistic.

"The first thing this morning," he said, "a senator said to me, 'Do not have a Saturday session.'"

Or take some moderately important business.

"We intended to vote on the bill tonight," Johnson said, "but one member of the Senate called up one of the pages, and told him he would be out of town today. I think he's making a speech on a 'won't do' Congress, but he asked me please not to have any votes while he is gone."

Nixons Spend Entire Income

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon, like many an ordinary citizen, lives from paycheck to paycheck, it was disclosed Monday.

In a new biography, "Richard Nixon, A Political and Personal Portrait," by Earl Mazo, Washington political writer for the New York Herald Tribune, Nixon gives this account of his finances:

"I came to Washington 12 years ago with $10,000 in government bonds, my GI life insurance, a 1946 Ford, furniture and $14,000 worth of life insurance.

"I own no stocks or bonds. The only real property I have an interest in is the house in which we live in Washington. The purchase price was $75,000, and I have a $50,000 mortgage on it with interest at 5 per cent.

"We have only that amount of money in the bank which is necessary for current expenses. The only other things I have are a 1955 Oldsmobile, our furniture and what one columnist likes to refer to as 'the fabulous gifts' I have received on my trips around the world.

"My wife owns nothing. We actually spend everything we get in. That is the way it has to be, if I am to do my job properly."

501.00 to 550.00	26.00

This new credit plan of "City" lets you add to your present account without increasing monthly payment rates. Suppose you buy a refrigerator for $229 with a monthly payment rate of $15. After several months, when your balance has been somewhat reduced, you wish to make additional purchases. So long as the total of your balance and your new purchases does not exceed $250 your monthly payment remains at $15.

There is no down payment when you make Continuous Credit Purchases. You may make a down payment if you prefer, but none is required on purchases totalling up to $500. On greater amounts, only a 10% down payment is required.

You know in advance what your monthly payments will be. The chart on the left shows the payments on your Continuous Credit Account. For instance, if you make a $75 purchase (with monthly payment rate of $7) and also a $100 purchase (with monthly payment rate of $9) you pay only the monthly payment rate on your combined purchases. Since they total $175 your monthly payment rate would be only $12.

Methodist Church Ministers Feel They Work Long Hours For Inadequate Pay

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI) — The ministers of the Methodist Church, the nation's largest Protestant body, feel they work long hours for inadequate pay, but if they had it to do all over again, they still would be clergymen.

At least two out of every five Methodist ministers perform janitorial tasks in their churches.

A third of them complain there is at least one layman in every congregation who tries to "boss the preacher around."

Almost to a man they believe laymen should assume more responsibility in running churches and that they could occasionally even conduct Sunday morning services.

And while most like to wear robes in their pulpits, they spurn the clerical collar for everyday dress.

Cross-Section Survey

These are some of the results of a nationwide survey of a cross-section of 163 Methodist ministers scientifically chosen to represent every age and type.

The study was conducted by the Department of Research and Survey of the National Missions of the Methodist Church Board of Missions at the request of the National Methodist Town and Country Conference.

The Rev. Dr. Robert L. Wilson, a research specialist and assistant director of research and survey, analyzed the results, and reported that the sample studied was an adequate representation of all the 24,000 ordained Methodist clergymen who serve 9.5 million members of 39,000 churches.

Wilson said there were many widely different answers to the question of how many hours a week the ministers worked. This raised a question, he said, as to what ministers consider to be their work.

Work Week Varies

One man may consider attending Parent-Teacher Assn. meetings as part of his pastoral duties, while another may regard attendance as a civic responsibility, Wilson said.

Most of the ministers claimed to work 50 to 69 hours a week. Twelve said they worked less than 40 hours and 17 reported they put in work weeks of 80 or more hours.

The greatest proportion of all the ministers received less than $5,000 a year in salaries and regarded their incomes as inadequate. Fewer than 4 per cent made $7,500 or more. Nine men received less than $2,000.

The expression "I don't give a continental" originated after the Revolutionary War. The Continental Congress paper money was practically worthless due to the lack of a sufficient gold reserve.

Future Course Of Big 4 Talks Is Speculated

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

A plugged nickel will easily get you a plugged dime's worth of opinion about the future course of East-West diplomatic negotiations.

Some say Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's recent statements indicate an intention to try to frighten the West's leaders into a summit conference despite the breakdown at Geneva.

Among those holding this opinion are some who think the Soviets are less eager on this point now, being willing to wait for developments in the political division which has recently developed in West Germany, and in the dispute between the United States and France.

Others expect the Soviets to make some gesture indicating that since Khrushchev has proved himself right about the inability to reach agreements at lower levels, he is now prepared to do some bargaining at the top level.

The British are still inclined to think this is a good idea, though somewhat shaken by the totality of the Geneva impasse.

France and the United States are convinced that the whole Kremlin objective is engulfment of West Berlin by Communist-controlled East Germany, something they will not permit.

The possibility of any Western policy changes between now and the resumption of the Geneva talks seems small.

The best bet is that the West, which has succeeded for seven months in stalling off a crisis over Berlin, will cling to the tactics which have proved successful so far. These are to display complete firmness about staying in Berlin, and to talk, talk, talk.

A test may come when and if the West German Parliament meets in Berlin July 1 to elect a new president. The East German Communists have threatened to blockade the city if the West Germans go through with their announced intention. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has tried, so far without success, to avoid whatshe considers such a provocation.

His opponents want to reassert the symbol of Berlin as the capital of all Germany.

If the Reds accept it as a gage of battle, it will seriously threaten all Allied hopes of continuing the present diplomatic stalemate.

West Virginia Vets Bonus Is Near Deadline

Applications Due Midnight June 30

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia veterans of the Korean War who haven't yet applied for their state bonus better get on the stick.

State Veterans Affairs Director C. S. Collier reminded Tuesday that there is only one week in which to make application. He noted that applications with postmarks later than midnight June 30 will not be eligible for processing.

Since the bonus program was started Nov. 1, 1957, the department has processed 81,846 applications, including 80,530 which were cleared for payments totaling $21,252,727.

Collier says it will still take about a year to resolve some 200 claims now in department files. The records of some of these must be reconstructed by the Armed Services.

The average payment made so far has been $264, Collier said. This was done at an average administrative cost of $2.25 per claim.

Of the total applications received, 43 per cent came from West Virginians now residing outside the state, the director said.

The Legislature provided for continuance of the program until Dec. 31, 1961. After that date no checks may be written and the books are to be closed.

Personnel in the department now are "stripping" files of paid claimants. These files are to be microfilmed and the original documents destroyed.

"Of course, all of these files have been audited by the State Tax Commissioner's office," Collier said. "After the filming is completed, all records will be stored for future reference."

Franklin, W.Va., Firm Gets State Contract

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The West Virginia Department of Purchases awarded contracts Tuesday totaling some $17,700 for 10 vehicles for the State Road Commission.

Hamlin Motor Co., Hamlin, submitted a low net bid of $6,967 for four suburban carryalls, and $2,600 for two panel trucks.

Sites Chevrolet, Franklin, Pendleton County, was the low net bidder at $7,082 on four sedans. The successful bidders accepted trade - ins on each vehicle.

What's In Name, Darling? It's A Honey Of A Mixup

BALTIMORE (AP) — A couple of stores which sell Darling clothes for women have been given federal court instructions on how they can or can't use that word Darling.

It's a honey of a mixup.

Two partners in a business known as Darling Dress Shop operate a number of stores in Washington and its suburbs. They have been for about 25 years.

Then, last October, a national chain which operates 150 stores across the country opened one in District Heights, a Washington suburb in Prince Georges County.

It's name? Darling Retail Shops Corp. of Olean, N.Y.

The local partners went into U.S. District Court for an injunction. They claimed they should have exclusive use of the name "Darling."

Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen conceded that the Washington partnership's name had acquired "special significance" in that area, but he said the disputed name wasn't so distinctive as to amount to "technical trademark."

He ruled that the chain outfit must call itself "National Darling" or "National Darling Shops" with the words "national" and "shops" being at least half as large on storefronts and signs as "darling." He also authorized the firm to use some such telephone listing as "Darling National" to prevent mixups.

The national firm, which has been in business 30 years itself, has stores in Hagerstown and Cumberland.

Equity Suits Filed

Two equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Elwood Faulkner vs. Mable Gelene Faulkner and Charles Edgar Ruckman vs. Norma Lee Ruckman.

Girls State Elects Mayor

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Patricia Conner of Catonsville was elected mayor Tuesday as delegates to the American Legion Auxiliary's Girls State set up a mythical city government.

Miss Connor, running on the Nationalist Party ticket, defeated Adina Beth Rosenfeld of Baltimore. The 194 delegates from high schools throughout Maryland elected Judith L. Augustine of Hyattsville as president of their City Council and Carolyn P. Bryson of Dundalk as city comptroller.

The elections preceded a welcoming speech by Gov. Tawes to the girls attending the weeklong study in county and state government.

"To those of us who are occupied with the affairs of state, it is stimulating and encouraging to observe young people like yourselves displaying so much interest in the processes of government," he told them.

Also on the day's program were speeches by Dels. Francis Holub (D-Balto 2nd) and Francis X. Gallagher (D-Balto 3rd).

County general elections are scheduled Wednesday. Also on the Wednesday program is a reception at the governor's mansion by Mrs. J. Millard Tawes.

The name Tennessee is derived from the Cherokee Indian village of Tanasi.

Tax Discount Deadline Near

Only five - and - one - half more working days remain for Allegany County taxpayers to take advantage of the five per cent discount on county real estate taxes, Tax Collector William B. Orndorff cautioned last night.

Today Isaac J. Smith, deputy in the collector's office will be at the Frostburg Fire Hall from 9:30 a. m. until 4 p. m. for the collection of state and county real estate taxes. This will be the last visit in June to communities outside Cumberland.

Already more than $1,000,000 in state and county real estate taxes has been collected since the bills went out just before Memorial Day. Mr. Orndorff's office at the Court House is expecting a big push during these final June days. The office is open from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m. weekdays and from 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays.

Mr. Orndorff again reminded taxpayers that he still has a number of tax bills which were not delivered because of incorrect addresses. Failure to receive a bill is no excuse for non-payment of taxes. After June 30, the discount on county taxes drops to four per cent. It lowers to three per cent in August.

It is estimated that the Roman empire contained some 55 million persons at the height of its power.

What's In Name, Darling? It's A Honey Of A Mixup

BALTIMORE (AP) — A couple of stores which sell Darling clothes for women have been given federal court instructions on how they can or can't use that word Darling.

It's a honey of a mixup.

Two partners in a business known as Darling Dress Shop operate a number of stores in Washington and its suburbs. They have been for about 25 years.

Then, last October, a national chain which operates 150 stores across the country opened one in District Heights, a Washington suburb in Prince Georges County.

It's name? Darling Retail Shops Corp. of Olean, N.Y.

The local partners went into U.S. District Court for an injunction. They claimed they should have exclusive use of the name "Darling."

Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen conceded that the Washington partnership's name had acquired "special significance" in that area, but he said the disputed name wasn't so distinctive as to amount to "technical trademark."

He ruled that the chain outfit must call itself "National Darling" or "National Darling Shops" with the words "national" and "shops" being at least half as large on storefronts and signs as "darling." He also authorized the firm to use some such telephone listing as "Darling National" to prevent mixups.

The national firm, which has been in business 30 years itself, has stores in Hagerstown and Cumberland.

Girls State Elects Mayor

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Patricia Conner of Catonsville was elected mayor Tuesday as delegates to the American Legion Auxiliary's Girls State set up a mythical city government.

Miss Connor, running on the Nationalist Party ticket, defeated Adina Beth Rosenfeld of Baltimore. The 194 delegates from high schools throughout Maryland elected Judith L. Augustine of Hyattsville as president of their City Council and Carolyn P. Bryson of Dundalk as city comptroller.

The elections preceded a welcoming speech by Gov. Tawes to the girls attending the weeklong study in county and state government.

"To those of us who are occupied with the affairs of state, it is stimulating and encouraging to observe young people like yourselves displaying so much interest in the processes of government," he told them.

Also on the day's program were speeches by Dels. Francis Holub (D-Balto 2nd) and Francis X. Gallagher (D-Balto 3rd).

County general elections are scheduled Wednesday. Also on the Wednesday program is a reception at the governor's mansion by Mrs. J. Millard Tawes.

The name Tennessee is derived from the Cherokee Indian village of Tanasi.

Tax Discount Deadline Near

Only five - and - one - half more working days remain for Allegany County taxpayers to take advantage of the five per cent discount on county real estate taxes, Tax Collector William B. Orndorff cautioned last night.

Today Isaac J. Smith, deputy in the collector's office will be at the Frostburg Fire Hall from 9:30 a. m. until 4 p. m. for the collection of state and county real estate taxes. This will be the last visit in June to communities outside Cumberland.

Already more than $1,000,000 in state and county real estate taxes has been collected since the bills went out just before Memorial Day. Mr. Orndorff's office at the Court House is expecting a big push during these final June days. The office is open from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m. weekdays and from 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays.

Mr. Orndorff again reminded taxpayers that he still has a number of tax bills which were not delivered because of incorrect addresses. Failure to receive a bill is no excuse for non-payment of taxes. After June 30, the discount on county taxes drops to four per cent. It lowers to three per cent in August.

It is estimated that the Roman empire contained some 55 million persons at the height of its power.

LaVale Barracks Trusty Is Arrested After Spree

A 22-year-old Frostburg man, who had been appointed a trusty at the Maryland State Police barracks in LaVale, walked away for two hours Saturday night and ended up in trouble.

The man, David William Preston, was charged with assault on a Winchester Road woman, driving with a revoked license and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle as a result of Saturday's short freedom spree.

James S. Getty, state's attorney, preferred the charges against the man yesterday after questioning him in connection with a stolen truck and the assault.

Preston was sentenced on January 3 of this year to six months in the Allegany County Jail and six months in the Maryland House of Correction. He was tried by Magistrate Fred Crowe in Frostburg on a motor vehicle violation and ordered to serve both sentences.

Preston was made a trusty at the County Jail and assigned to the state police barracks.

Getty said sometime Saturday night he walked away from the barracks and stole a pickup truck in LaVale. He drove out the Winchester Road, abandoned the truck and broke into a home.

Police said that a woman was asleep in the home, and when she started to awaken, Preston allegedly struck her. Getty noted the woman was not seriously injured.

Authorities said Preston was apprehended within two hours after his escape.

He will be tried on Monday at 8 p. m. before a trial magistrate in Cresaptown, Getty said.

City To Ask Bids On Paint

Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder received authority from the Mayor and Council Monday to advertise for bids on paint used by the city.

Mrs. Roeder said that in looking at some of the vouchers, she noticed some paint was purchased a gallon at a time, that the city was buying ready-mix when it should get another type and that it also has been paying top retail prices in many instances.

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming while agreeing paint should be purchased in that manner, explained that the Police Department used as much if not more than any other department especially in the last 60 days. He said the department painter had been injured and off from work some time. Some types of paint cannot be used, he said, and urged that in advertising rigid specifications be provided.

Mrs. Roeder said the city should get top-grade paint since there is a "tremendous amount" used in other departments as well.

North End Lights Dimmed By Explosion

A small explosion dimmed lights in North End early yesterday.

The explosion was caused by blasting at the Allegany Instrument Company on Wills Mountain where a construction project is under way. A spokesman for the company said rocks are being blasted at the site of an addition to the present structure.

Employes Approved By County

Two Allegany County workers were approved for permanent job status at yesterday's meeting of the County Board of Commissioners.

Roy J. Loar was approved as assistant supervisor on the request of Harry T. Skelly, county roads supervisor, who informed the board that Loar had been on a probationary basis since January 2.

Mrs. Eleanor Cline was appointed a regular practical nurse on the force at the Allegany County Infirmary, the board specifying however that Mrs. Cline would have to complete a probationary period.

The request for the practical nurse was made by Earl D. Grim, superintendent at the Infirmary, who said a replacement was needed for the late Mrs. Jane Kamauf. Mrs. Cline was selected from the list of temporary employes at the institution.

Grim's letter also pointed out that another practical nurse should be appointed to the temporary work force.

The commissioners selected William Torkington to audit the books of the LaVale Sanitary Commission. His name was submitted for approval by W. Earl Cobey, attorney.

Commissioner William A. Wilson said he and William B. Orndorff, county tax collector, plan to attend a conference of the National Association of County Officials which opens this weekend in Detroit. Commissioner J. Tucker Mason indicated he may also attend.

Dr. Ton van Strien, deputy medical officer for the county, sent the county board a copy of a letter to the DWS Realty Company in which was outlined the sewage specifications which will be required for a new bowling center the firm plans to construct at U. S. Route 40 and Winchester Road.

The letter stated that the firm will have to submit system plans for the new building, and also carried a number of suggestions for such disposal.

Skelly submitted a report of the construction costs of a new office at roads department garage on Franklin Street. Total cost of the addition was $2,139.91, with material accounting for $1,128.09 of the total.

Schute Protests Bid Rejection

A Cumberland roofing contractor appeared at yesterday's meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to protest the rejection of his low bid for a roofing job at the Mt. Savage jail.

Alex J. Schute pointed out that his offer of $89.60 was well below the bid of the firm that was awarded the work. The job as given to E. W. Abell on a bid of $147.

An examination of the bids was made and it was pointed out to Schute that his estimates did not seem to guarantee the work as did the others bids. It was stressed that there had been nothing personal in the awarding of the bid, and it was also pointed out that Schute had not consulted with a Mt. Savage official on the requirements.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

FILMY PLASTIC BAGS—A WARNING

- Plastic Bags
- Growing Pains
- Buttons and Bows
- Vitamin F

Q. What makes thin plastic, such as that used for dry cleaning bags, stick to the skin?

A. The plastic becomes electrified and is attracted to objects which have an opposite charge just as steel is attracted to a magnet. This can be very dangerous. At least four children have suffocated in the filmy dry cleaning bags. Medical alerts are being issued on the containers. Static electricity in the bags cause them to cling to the victim's face and cut off breathing. Of the four known victims, three were 2 years old and the other 4. Medical societies and health departments are notifying people of the danger. Small children should not be allowed to play with the plastic bags.

Q. What causes growing pains in children? Does the condition indicate rheumatic fever?

A. In most cases the cause of pain in children's legs occurring at night is unknown. Rheumatic fever is rarely the cause. There seems to be no reason to call them "growing pains" except that they occur during childhood.

Q. You sometimes hear of people who have swallowed a variety of objects such as spoons, buttons, etc. Are there any authentic medical reports of such cases?

A. Deliberate swallowing of foreign bodies is not so rare among mentally ill persons. A New York doctor recently operated on a 43-year-old woman and removed 393 objects from the stomach. Their combined weight was three pounds, seven ounces. They included 78 spoon handles, several bolts and many nuts, screws, nails, hairpins, a religious medal with chain, several beads, earrings, pins, pieces of glass and gravel.

Q. What is vitamin F?—Mrs. C.

A. "Vitamin F" is a term formerly used for certain essential fatty acids. It is no longer employed in scientific writings.

Questions directed to Science Editors, P.O. Box 396, Madison Sq. Sta., N. Y. 10, N. Y. will be incorporated in these columns when possible.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

FILMY PLASTIC BAGS.
—A WARNING

• Plastic Bags
• Growing Pains
• Buttons and Bows
• Vitamin F

Q. What makes thin plastic, such as that used for dry cleaning bags, stick to the skin?

A. The plastic becomes electrified and is attracted to objects which have an opposite charge just as steel is attracted to a magnet. This can be very dangerous. At least four children have suffocated in the filmy dry cleaning bags. Medical alerts are being issued on the containers. Static electricity in the bags cause them to cling to the victim's face and cut off breathing. Of the four known victims, three were 2 years old and the other 4. Medical societies and health departments are notifying people of the danger. Small children should not be allowed to play with the plastic bags.

Q. What causes growing pains in children? Does the condition indicate rheumatic fever?

A. In most cases the cause of pain in children's legs occurring at night is unknown. Rheumatic fever is rarely the cause. There seems to be no reason to call them "growing pains" except that they occur during childhood.

Q. You sometimes hear of people who have swallowed a variety of objects such as spoons, buttons, etc. Are there any authentic medical reports of such cases?

A. Deliberate swallowing of foreign bodies is not so rare among mentally ill persons. A New York doctor recently operated on a 43-year-old woman and removed 393 objects from the stomach. Their combined weight was three pounds, seven ounces. They included 78 spoon handles, several bolts and many nuts, screws, nails, hairpins, a religious medal with chain, several beads, earrings, pins, pieces of glass and gravel.

Q. What is vitamin F?—Mrs. C.

A. "Vitamin F" is a term formerly used for certain essential fatty acids. It is no longer employed in scientific writings.

Questions directed to Science Editors, P.O. Box 396, Madison Sq. Sta., N. Y. 10, N. Y. will be incorporated in these columns when possible.

Selected Features Show Strength In Mixed Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Demand for selected features sparked a late spurt on the stock exchange to climax a generally narrow, irregular market.

A handful of features responded to corporate news and a number of issues rose on the strength of favorable brokerage comment.

American Cyanamid ran up ½ points to 59⅞, and the company announced an oral polio vaccine. Allied Chemical rose 2 points on an optimistic earnings forecast.

White Motor, rose 2¼; Joy Manufacturing, 1¼; Food Machinery, 2, all against a background of favorable market letter comment.

American Motors was the day's most actively traded issue and rose nearly 2 points in a mixed auto list where Chrysler fell a point.

Aluminum shares met demand which lifted Reynolds 5⅞, Alcoa 2 points and Aluminum 1¼, the last on the day's second heaviest turnover. Tire shares showed improvement of 1¼ in Firestone, 1½ Goodrich, 1¾ Goodyear.

Electronics were mixed, with Litton off 3. Zenith down 1½; General Time and Texas Instruments up around 2.

For rails, improvement ran to 2 points in Norfolk & Western, reflecting record earnings for the first five months of the year. Western Maryland gained 1½, Northern Pacific nearly a point. Chesapeake & Ohio countered with a point loss.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—The grain market, except for 1960 wheat futures, was weak Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the close, wheat was off 1⅜ to up ⅛; corn off ⅜ to 1⅜; oats off ⅜ to 1⅜; new oats off ⅞ to 1; rye off ¼ to 1, and soybeans off 1⅝ to 2⅛.

Wheat prices dropped after a steady opening. The general trade was light, but hedge selling increased later in the day. Buying was slow. Cash and commission houses sold September. The new July and September contracts were steady.

Corn also weakened, with local traders doing most of the selling. There was also scattered commission house selling, but one house was a good buyer, and there continued to be a resting demand for July at $1.26. A prediction of showers was a factor in the selling.

Export subsidies were granted on 800,000 bushels of corn and 939,000 bushels of oats.

Oats were easier with corn. Local traders did most of the selling.

Rye prices also continued their downward trend. The Winnipeg market was heavy.

Soybean prices were down as much as 2⅛ cents a bushel in a quiet but liquidating market. The decline was in sympathy with edible oils, and additional sales by the CCC of soybeans were also a factor. Longs were major sellers.

PERTH, Australia (UPI)—Robert J. Thomas, 22, ran amok with a gun Tuesday and killed a young couple and a taxi driver. He also wounded a police sergeant in a running gun battle and shot himself in the jaw before he was captured.

The first plank road in the United States was built in 1846 in New York.

Selected Features Show Strength In Mixed Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Demand for selected features sparked a late spurt on the stock exchange to climax a generally narrow, irregular market.

A handful of features responded to corporate news and a number of issues rose on the strength of favorable brokerage comment.

American Cyanamid ran up ½ points to 59⅞, and the company announced an oral polio vaccine. Allied Chemical rose 2 points on an optimistic earnings forecast.

White Motor, rose 2¼; Joy Manufacturing, 1¼; Food Machinery, 2, all against a background of favorable market letter comment.

American Motors was the day's most actively traded issue and rose nearly 2 points in a mixed auto list where Chrysler fell a point.

Aluminum shares met demand which lifted Reynolds 5⅞, Alcoa 2 points and Aluminum 1¼, the last on the day's second heaviest turnover. Tire shares showed improvement of 1¼ in Firestone, 1½ Goodrich, 1¾ Goodyear.

Electronics were mixed, with Litton off 3, Zenith down 1½; General Time and Texas Instruments up around 2.

For rails, improvement ran to 2 ¼ points in Norfolk & Western, reflecting record earnings for the first five months of the year. Western Maryland gained 1½, Northern Pacific nearly a point. Chesapeake & Ohio countered with a point loss.

Havana Celebration

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro has invited half a million peasants, armed with their traditional machetes, to march in Havana July 26 in celebration of his successful revolution.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—The grain market, except for 1960 wheat futures, was weak Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the close, wheat was off 1⅜ to up ⅛; corn off ⅜ to 1⅜; oats off ⅝ to 1⅜; new oats off ⅞ to 1; rye off ¼ to 1, and soybeans off 1⅝ to 2⅛.

Wheat prices dropped after a steady opening. The general trade was light, but hedge selling increased later in the day. Buying was slow. Cash and commission houses sold September. The new July and September contracts were steady.

Corn also weakened, with local traders doing most of the selling. There was also scattered commission house selling, but one house was a good buyer, and there continued to be a resting demand for July at $1.26. A prediction of showers was a factor in the selling.

Export subsidies were granted on 800,000 bushels of corn and 939,000 bushels of oats.

Oats were easier with corn. Local traders did most of the selling.

Rye prices also continued their downward trend. The Winnipeg market was heavy.

Soybean prices were down as much as 2⅛ cents a bushel in a quiet but liquidating market. The decline was in sympathy with edible oils, and additional sales by the CCC of soybeans were also a factor. Longs were major sellers.

WEST POINT HOPEFULS

THEIR GOAL: WEST POINT. Sgt. Shelby Church, left, checks a roster as candidates leisurely wait and listen for their names to be called.

Ready for four days of extensive testing, West Point candidates scurry from Fort Sill bus to line up for first in series of rigid examinations.

"Gee! It's all over now—except for the Point," exclaimed a crew-cut, 18-year-old prospective Army officer.

The wide-eyed high school senior, along with 70 other young men, had just completed a four-day series of comprehensive mental, medical and physical aptitude tests at the Artillery and Missile Center at Fort Sill, Okla. They were candidates for admission to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y.

At the same time, at 24 other Army and Air Force installations scattered throughout the United States and Europe, prospective plebes were taking similar tests.

When the tests at Fort Sill were over, the candidates, including both high school and college students, boarded buses and headed homeward to resume studies and classroom activities. They then awaited the day when they hope the postman will bring a letter of acceptance and orders to report to the Point in July.

About 750 young men are admitted to West Point each year. Pictured here are the Fort Sill lads going through their tests.

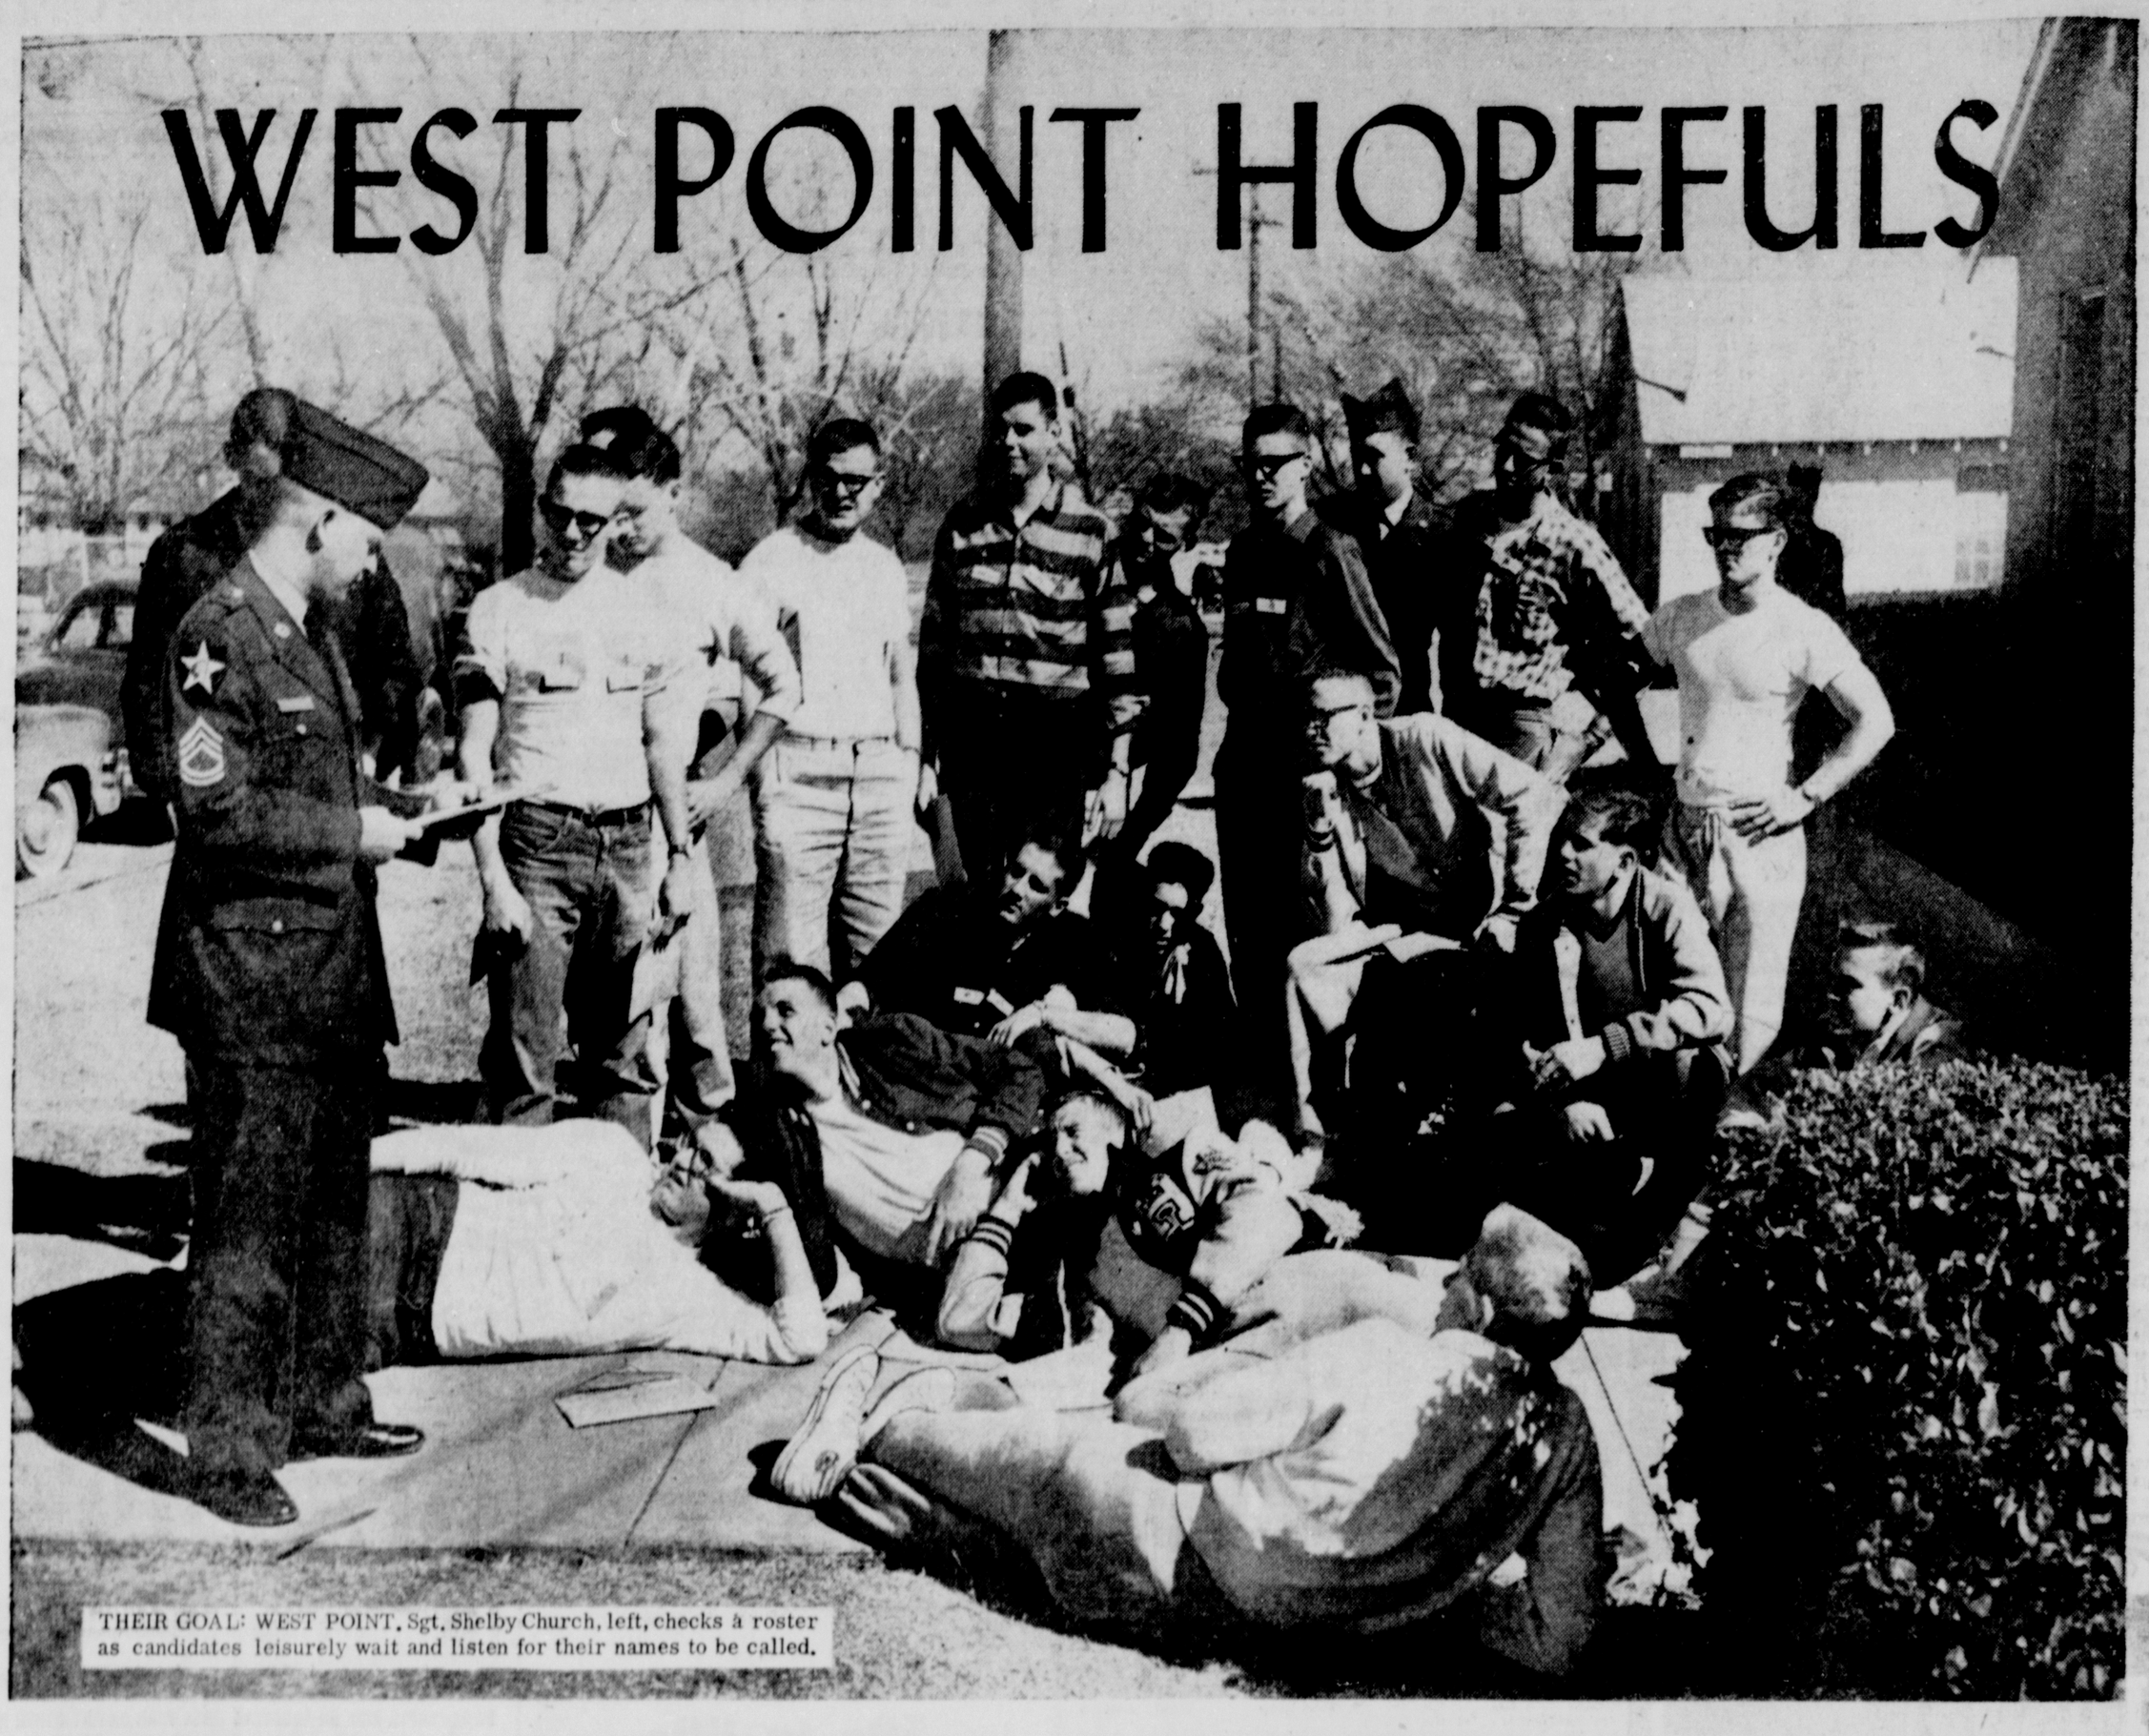
WEST POINT HOPEFULS



THEIR GOAL: WEST POINT. Sgt. Shelby Church, left, checks a roster as candidates leisurely wait and listen for their names to be called.

Ready for four days of extensive testing, West Point candidates scurry from Fort Sill bus to line up for first in series of rigid examinations.

"Gee! It's all over now—except for the Point," exclaimed a crew-cut, 18-year-old prospective Army officer.

The wide-eyed high school senior, along with 70 other young men, had just completed a four-day series of comprehensive mental, medical and physical aptitude tests at the Artillery and Missile Center at Fort Sill, Okla. They were candidates for admission to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y.

At the same time, at 24 other Army and Air Force installations scattered throughout the United States and Europe, prospective plebes were taking similar tests.

When the tests at Fort Sill were over, the candidates, including both high school and college students, boarded buses and headed homeward to resume studies and classroom activities. They then awaited the day when they hope the postman will bring a letter of acceptance and orders to report to the Point in July.

Town Workers In Frostburg Get Holiday

Long Weekend Starts July 3

FROSTBURG — Frostburg city employees will be given July 3 off as a holiday in observance of Independence Day which occurs on Saturday. The order was passed at this week's Council meeting after Commissioner William Preston stated that he had been approached by a number of the city employees.

Council decided that since the state and county were following the same procedure that they would do likewise. They stated in doing so that this was no an ordinance nor would it be binding upon the Council at later dates.

D. Varner Carpenter, Frost Avenue, who has served for the past three years on the Civil Service Board of Frostburg, was reappointed for another three year term.

Council will meet July 7 with the board of directors of Miners Hospital. The board stated in a letter that this date would be most suitable for them and council accepted the recommendation.

William C. Harman, fish culturist for the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission, thanked the Frostburg Mayor and Council for their recent cooperation in the draining of Piney Run Dam so that a census of the fish could be taken and undesirable species eliminated.

The dam was drained this spring, and according to Mr. Harmon, over 1950 pounds of fish were taken. Of these 309 pounds were black crappie, 517 pounds of bull heads, 1,036 pounds of suckers; 55 pounds of bass; 31 pounds of bluegills and two pounds of rainbow trout.

The Council was notified that the Commission will now stock the 19-acre dam with 5,000 fry of rainbow trout.

Radar Catches Hardy County Jail Escapee

Maryland Police Arrest Davidson

A 27-year-old ex-convict who escaped three weeks ago from Hardy County Jail at Moorefield with two fellow-prisoners is back behind bars, awaiting transfer from Maryland to West Virginia authorities.

Vernon R. Davidson of Rockoak, W. Va., was snared Sunday by a Maryland State Police radar unit from the Waterloo barracks. He was driving a stolen car.

A trooper operating the radar apparatus on the Washington Boulevard, north of Savage in the Baltimore area, notified the "stopping team" to check a car bearing New York tags. When the operator failed to produce a drivers license and registration card to the vehicle, he was ordered detained by police.

Stolen In New York

Investigation disclosed the car had been stolen in Syracuse, N. Y., and that Davidson had escaped from jail. He may have stolen other vehicles in Pennsylvania and New York, police said.

J. H. Wilson, jailer at the Moorefield lockup, said yesterday that Davidson was incarcerated on two motor charges prior to his escape. With him in a cell were Waldo Wilkins and Waldo Souders, both of the Mathias section.

According to Wilson, a woman friend of one of the men apparently slipped a "whole hacksaw" through a rear jail window. At night, when no one was on duty at the jail, the trio sawed a catch on the cell door and walked out of the building.

Others Surrender

Wilson explained that all locks in the jail can be opened from the inside.

Shortly after the escape, Wilkins and Souders surrendered peacefully at the jail. They were transferred to the lockup in Petersburg, "a much better jail," Wilson said.

The jailer, however, was quick to point out that a new jail is under construction in Moorefield. The old one had only one room and two cells.

Wilson said he had arrested Davidson "50 or 60 times." The prisoner also "served time at Moundsville," he added. "Too bad New York didn't take him."

Sewer Work Plan Given Approval

PIEDMONT—The sewer work proposal of Walter, Woody and Heimerdinger, bond brokers of Cincinnati, was accepted at a meeting of Mayor Rodney Baker and Council Monday.

The proposal stated in part that the firm will confer with town officials and their engineers on the project of laying sewer lines and pumping stations, so the community can connect with the sewage plant being built in and the vicinity of Westernport, as to rates for service.

The company's bond attorney will prepare papers authorizing the issue of revenue bonds for adoption by the town council under West Virginia laws and also have its attorney confer with the town and its legal advisors.

The proposal is subject to legality of the revenue bonds being approved by the bond attorney of the company. In consideration of services to be performed, the town will pay at the time of delivery of bonds $50 per $1,000 bonds issued and delivered, payable to the company office in New York.

Council ordered that a rate of ten cents be charged for Boy and Girl Scouts and children of church organizations for use of the Piedmont swimming pool in the evening.

Goebel Named Police Chief In Frostburg

FROSTBURG—William R. Goebel, local businessman, was appointed police commissioner at an executive session of the City Council Monday night. He succeeds William Sluss who resigned after being appointed executive secretary of the Frostburg Housing Authority.

Other appointments included: George Wright, water superintendent, and John Starkey and Leslie Bevan, patrolmen. Wright, who qualified in recent Civil Service examinations, was formerly employed in the plumbing department of Layman's Hardware Store and for the past several months has been serving as night clerk at the police station. Starkey, night clerk and custodian since 1955, had been working on a temporary basis since 1953. Bevan has been serving as an extra patrolman since late in 1958.

With the three appointments, all Civil Service and council positions have been filled.

Other business at the regular council meeting included granting permission to the Lions Club to hold a carnival on the city ball diamond at the swimming pool, July 20 to 25. Request for permission was made by Dr. Daniel Shupe, member of the club.

Mr. and Mrs. John Manley, Wood Street, asked for relief from a situation which has existed on the street for many years. Stoyer Street, which is directly opposite their home, is unpaved and has a steep grade. When cars turn in or start up the street, gravel and stones thrown across the thoroughfare hit their house and create a safety hazard. Council stated they would investigate and try to allevate the situation.

Joseph Montana, East Main Street, asked when council is going to improve alley at rear of his property. William Preston, street commissioner, stated that in about three weeks street equipment will be in that area for necessary grading.

Radar Catches Hardy County Jail Escapee

Maryland Police Arrest Davidson

A 27-year-old ex-convict who escaped three weeks ago from Hardy County Jail at Moorefield with two fellow-prisoners is back behind bars, awaiting transfer from Maryland to West Virginia authorities.

Vernon R. Davidson of Rockoak, W. Va., was snared Sunday by a Maryland State Police radar unit from the Waterloo barracks. He was driving a stolen car.

A trooper operating the radar apparatus on the Washington Boulevard, north of Savage in the Baltimore area, notified the "stopping team" to check a car bearing New York tags. When the operator failed to produce a drivers license and registration card to the vehicle, he was ordered detained by police.

Stolen In New York

Investigation disclosed the car had been stolen in Syracuse, N. Y., and that Davidson had escaped from jail. He may have stolen other vehicles in Pennsylvania and New York, police said.

J. H. Wilson, jailer at the Moorefield lockup, said yesterday that Davidson was incarcerated on two motor charges prior to his escape. With him in a cell were Waldo Wilkins and Waldo Souders, both of the Mathias section.

According to Wilson, a woman friend of one of the men apparently slipped a "whole hacksaw" through a rear jail window. At night, when no one was on duty at the jail, the trio sawed a catch on the cell door and walked out of the building.

Others Surrender

Wilson explained that all locks in the jail can be opened from the inside.

Shortly after the escape, Wilkins and Souders surrendered peacefully at the jail. They were transferred to the lockup in Petersburg, "a much better jail," Wilson said.

The jailer, however, was quick to point out that a new jail is under construction in Moorefield. The old one had only one room and two cells.

Wilson said he had arrested Davidson "50 or 60 times." The prisoner also "served time at Moundsville," he added. "Too bad New York didn't take him."

Sewer Work Plan Given Approval

PIEDMONT—The sewer work proposal of Walter, Woody and Heimerdinger, bond brokers of Cincinnati, was accepted at a meeting of Mayor Rodney Baker and Council Monday.

The proposal stated in part that the firm will confer with town officials and their engineers on the project of laying sewer lines and pumping stations, so the community can connect with the sewage plant being built in and the vicinity of Westernport, as to rates for service.

The company's bond attorney will prepare papers authorizing the issue of revenue bonds for adoption by the town council under West Virginia laws and also have its attorney confer with the town and its legal advisors.

The proposal is subject to legality of the revenue bonds being approved by the bond attorney of the company. In consideration of services to be performed, the town will pay at the time of delivery of bonds $50 per $1,000 bonds issued and delivered, payable to the company office in New York.

Council ordered that a rate of ten cents be charged for Boy and Girl Scouts and children of church organizations for use of the Piedmont swimming pool in the evening.

Goebel Named Police Chief In Frostburg

FROSTBURG—William R. Goebel, local businessman, was appointed police commissioner at an executive session of the City Council Monday night. He succeeds William Sluss who resigned after being appointed executive secretary of the Frostburg Housing Authority.

Other appointments included: George Wright, water superintendent, and John Starkey and Leslie Bevan, patrolmen. Wright, who qualified in recent Civil Service examinations, was formerly employed in the plumbing department of Layman's Hardware Store and for the past several months has been serving as night clerk at the police station. Starkey, night clerk and custodian since 1955, had been working on a temporary basis since 1953. Bevan has been serving as an extra patrolman since late in 1958.

With the three appointments, all Civil Service and council positions have been filled.

Other business at the regular council meeting included granting permission to the Lions Club to hold a carnival on the city ball diamond at the swimming pool, July 20 to 25. Request for permission was made by Dr. Daniel Shupe, member of the club.

Mr. and Mrs. John Manley, Wood Street, asked for relief from a situation which has existed on the street for many years, Stoyer Street, which is directly opposite their home, is unpaved and has a steep grade. When cars turn in or start up the street, gravel and stones thrown across the thoroughfare hit their house and create a safety hazard. Council stated they would investigate and try to allevate the situation.

Joseph Montana, East Main Street, asked when council is going to improve alley at rear of his property. William Preston, street commissioner, stated that in about three weeks street equipment will be in that area for necessary grading.

City Surplus Will Equal Last Year's

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson predicted yesterday that the surplus for the 1958-59 fiscal year will equal the $107,000 of last year.

Major reasons for the surplus cited were excess collection of state income tax revenue, an increase in the tax levy and other miscellaneous revenues.

Another factor contributing to the surplus is the fact that in setting up anticipated income, the city attempted not to overestimate and be conservative

For example, in the case of revenue from state income tax, final payment of which was received yesterday, the city basing its outlook on forecasts of a recession year, dropped the anticipated income from $68,000 for the previous fiscal year to $65,000 for 1958-59.

Yesterday, a check for $73,399.52 was received, and this added to $9,779.89 received in payment for back income taxes, brought the total to $83,179.48 or $18,179.41 over the estimate for the fiscal year.

Also received yesterday was a final payment on auto license fees. The city anticipated $50,000. It had collected $26,269.75 and received a check for $24,344.75, making a total of $50,604.75 or excess collections of $604.50.

Racing income is up $3,666.82. The city had levied $40,000 but received $43,.66.82.

Gibson said the surplus will in no way affect the need for the $300,000 bond issue which the city has approved by resolution and, which, pending no opposition, will go into effect 50 days from its passage date June 15.

Some of the surplus returned from departmental appropriations must be placed in the next budget to complete unfinished projects. In other words, the department excess will be earmarked for work not completed this year.

One example, Gibson said, is the Street Department plan, for semi-surfacing a group of streets which it had been hoped to get in this year's street appropriation. However, time involved is too short and the money available now must be set up for that purpose in the next fiscal year, he said. Should cost of work exceed funds available this year, that means the additional money must come either from the next Street appropriation or part of the surplus used for that purpose.

In addition, Gibson said there is considerable work to be done on public buildings which cannot be completed in this fiscal year and must be provided for in the next.

Some appropriations not used must be returned to the budget. One of these for example, is the $12,000 for sewer and utility relocations in connection with the Cumberland Thruway. The city "saved" about $5,000 on elections since none was held but this too must be returned to the appropriations next year.

Without the bond issue, the city would be in about the same position it was at the state of this fiscal year. The surplus will not be enough to grant city employes a raise since a good share of it will be "earmarked" for projects not completed. And the Mayor and Council has said the pay raise will get top priority in its budget discussions.

What do you have at your fingertips? Every woman can have the beauty of tapered nails!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

What's At Your Fingertips?

No woman can be embarrassed and poised at the same time. That's why what you have at your finger tips can spoil more than just the beauty of your hands!

I don't blame any woman for being self-conscious about the condition or appearance of her hands.

But instead of doing everything short of sitting on them to keep your hands out of sight, why not solve your dilemma the modern way? Even your great-grandmother did more than just try to hide her hands. She used homey remedies: Cucumber or lemon juice, followed by a dusting of cornstarch to whiten her fingers.

All you need do is run down to the corner store to provide yourself with really-scientific aids to hand beauty. Of course, it's what you do with what you get that counts most. Probably the most dramatic improvement you can make in the appearance of your hands is with nail polish. Even the stubbornest stubby-looking hands will take on a tapered look if you learn how to apply it for its best effect.

Start by analyzing the shape of your nail. To get the clearest picture of your nail shape, use one hand to cover the fingers of the other hand right up to the edge of your cuticle. Now, what do you see? Are your nails round, square, spatulate or oval? Decide carefully. Then, apply your nail polish according to the directions given below. You'll end up with ovalized and tapered-looking nails that will make you proud to display your hands!

For Round Nails: Make them look longer and more oval by painting the entire nail except a narrow curling strip at each side.

For Square Nails: Make them look oval by leaving the moon and a wide strip of the tip unpainted.

For Spatulate Nails: Make them look narrow by leaving the moon, tip, and a small strip along the sides unpainted.

For Oval Nails: Retain the oval shape by painting the entire nail or by leaving an oval tip and moon unpainted.

Try it now and see what spanking new hand beauty you have right at the tips of your fingers!

TOMORROW: Test Your Grace!

Special Type Lime Must Be Used On Ballfields

The Recreation Department insists that lime used for lining ballfields be of the type with total neutralizing power (nonburning), Acting Mayor G. Ray Light said yesterday.

The statement came as the result of a plea by Karl Muller of 643 Sedgwick Street, who said that his youngster, Robin, was burned about the eyes when she fell over a bag which had contained lime on the county-owned ball field on Furnace Street.

The Recreation Department has denied it lines the field and said "volunteers" do the work, Light said.

They are being told to buy the hydrated lime recommended by the department. It is purchased from a local source and the department said this is the nonburning type.

School Board Submits List Of Improvement Jobs

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County schools, and Joseph M. Miller and J. Goodloe Jackson, members of the County Board of Education, submitted estimates on a number of improvements to schools in the county system to the County Board of Commissioners yesterday.

The estimates, Webster stressed, were not official, and were only offered so that a basis of the cost of the various projects could be reached.

The improvements are a followup of a House measure which was enacted at the last session of the Legislature. A Senate bill specified that certain improvements be made in the Beall Elementary School area.

Webster pointed out that Senate Bill 481 called for the grading and blacktopping of the area in back of Beall School, and estimated that the work will cost in the neighborhood of $9,700. He stressed that money for this work had to be allocated under law.

The other improvements to school areas were submitted under provisions of House Bill 895. Work at eight schools was suggested, and an estimate set up for the possible cost of each job.

Grading and fencing of a new lot for Carver School on Frederick Street was one of the recommendations, as was grading and hard surfacing of the parking and playground area at Fort Hill High School.

A retaining wall was suggested for LaVale School, as was the fencing of its playground. The playground of Hill Street School in Frostburg was also asked, while grading and installation of a sidewalk area approximately 400 feet long was asked for Westernport Elementary School.

Also requested for the fill-in and hard surfacing of the area between Valley High School, Lonaconing, and its athletic field. Recommended for Oldtown School was the grading, stabilizing and surfacing of an area which would be used for loading and unloading of bus students, and grading and stabilizing of the school's parking area.

Commissioner J. Tucker Mason asked the Board of Education members if such improvements hadn't previously been handled by Parent-Teacher associations. Webster informed Mason that such projects were beyond the financial scope of PTA's.

Commissioner William A. Wilson inquired as to whether a lump sum bid would be the most feasible method of getting the work done, and Miller concurred with the suggestion explaining if such a way of financing the work could be reached a great savings would result.

School Board Submits List Of Improvement Jobs

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County schools, and Joseph M. Miller and J. Goodloe Jackson, members of the County Board of Education, submitted estimates on a number of improvements to schools in the county system to the County Board of Commissioners yesterday.

The estimates, Webster stressed, were not official, and were only offered so that a basis of the cost of the various projects could be reached.

The improvements are a followup of a House measure which was enacted at the last session of the Legislature. A Senate bill specified that certain improvements be made in the Beall Elementary School area.

Webster pointed out that Senate Bill 481 called for the grading and blacktopping of the area in back of Beall School, and estimated that the work will cost in the neighborhood of $9,700. He stressed that money for this work had to be allocated under law.

The other improvements to school areas were submitted under provisions of House Bill 895. Work at eight schools was suggested, and an estimate set up for the possible cost of each job.

Grading and fencing of a new lot for Carver School on Frederick Street was one of the recommendations, as was grading and hard surfacing of the parking and playground area at Fort Hill High School.

A retaining wall was suggested for LaVale School, as was the fencing of its playground. The playground of Hill Street School in Frostburg was also asked, while grading and installation of a sidewalk area approximately 400 feet long was asked for Westernport Elementary School.

Also requested for the fill-in and hard surfacing of the area between Valley High School, Lonaconing, and its athletic field. Recommended for Oldtown School was the grading, stabilizing and surfacing of an area which would be used for loading and unloading of bus students, and grading and stabilizing of the school's parking area.

Commissioner J. Tucker Mason asked the Board of Education members if such improvements hadn't previously been handled by Parent-Teacher associations. Webster informed Mason that such projects were beyond the financial scope of PTA's.

Commissioner William A. Wilson inquired as to whether a lump sum bid would be the most feasible method of getting the work done, and Miller concurred with the suggestion explaining if such a way of financing the work could be reached a great savings would result.

U.S.-Russian Economic Race

The 133-member Central Committee of the Soviet Communist Party convenes today in Moscow in what is for the Russians an unprecedented glare of publicity. The usual practice has been to reveal the session only after it's passed into history. This time Pravda not only announced the date, it also published an agenda of sorts.

The committee is to consider key economic questions related to the new Soviet seven-year plan. Such matters as automation, mechanization of farming, wider use of synthetics — in short, application of the latest technical innovations to the U.S.S.R.'s big push for economic supremacy.

Why the advance notice? Some observers theorize that Khrushchev is trying to give rank-and-file party people a sense of participation in great events. Maybe so. But it's also possible the Reds are doing exactly what they seem to be doing, namely, engaging in a little old-fashioned ballyhoo.

As numerous economists have been at pains to point out, the industrial "race" between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. is in one sense a trumped-up affair. The Russian economy is going through a stage ours has already completed. G. Warren Nutter of the National Bureau of Economic Research noted just the other day that a large share of the Soviet spurt is attributable to "the diversion of manpower to industry" from farming and other work.

But such subtleties don't make very effective propaganda for the West, and Khrushchev has managed to convince a large part of the world that the Soviet Union is about to run us into the ground at our own specialty—production. Whatever other purpose it may have, the Moscow meeting will furnish Khrushchev with an excellent sounding-board for pressing his propaganda advantage.

Meanwhile, in the U.S., the self-analysis continues. Recent reassurances haven't removed the sting from Defense Secretary McElroy's warning of April 23 that unless we "increase our own output . . . we may come out second best in a competition for which there is no second prize."

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Life In The Big City

Being a cliff-dweller in New York, I do not own the house in which I live. It is what hereabouts is called a multiple dwelling. At one time such buildings were called tenements; then they went fancy and they were called apartment houses and the rent went fancy too. At any rate, it is our home except in the summer when we go to our own farm where the comforts are different.

I have lived in this building for more than 20 years because it is a comfortable, well-arranged building suitable for our purposes. The neighborhood, of course, changed as neighborhoods do in New York. When we moved here, this was one of the swellest streets in New York, but the rents were going down because of the Depression. However, there were still pleasant people in the building. And the landlord was an insurance company which had an efficient agent and the building was kept spotless and well-serviced.

Soon the building was sold to some Central Americans who took it as an investment against the day when the great dictator would have to run away. However, the Central Americans did not know much about managing our kind of a house. The brick turned black; the gray-facing took on a yellowish-brown color. The lobby became a shambles. Apparently every time they needed to do something, they had to consult somebody in Central America.

Then a thing happened which, although it was supposed to be secret, somehow got around. Apartments were rented for what they could get, so that some were paying high rents and some were paying very low rents. It was very unfair. And then somebody sold the Central Americans the idea of breaking up a few floors into small flats, some of which were so small as to be almost useless. And they rented out some apartments as boarding houses. The place became awful. And all the time, the Central Americans were weeping that they were losing money and that they wanted more rent. When the rent got high enough, some of the better tenants moved away.

We stayed on, hoping that things would work out. Besides, my dog, Joe, who is named after a celebrated Senator, barks a lot and here he is a popular dog. Elsewhere, who knows? In addition, it will cost a year's rent to move my stuff, including my books and files and records and such accumulations.

Then the Central Americans sold or leased the building—I am not privy to the deal—to an energetic young man who went to work cleaning it up and making it look like new. So the tenants organized a committee to protect themselves from the new landlord. They divided themselves rapidly into two groups: A. Those who were willing to pay a higher rent if they could get improved services; B. Those who were willing to accept the improved services but who refused to pay higher rents.

Meanwhile, the new man washed the front of the building until it looked like new. He improved the lobby until it looked quite decent, although I should have preferred less garish art. It is in the lobby that the first parental bad taste manifested itself, because some parents are so progressive that they do not care what their children do to other people's property.

Then there is a row over whether to put in self-service elevators or not. At first, I was against self-service elevators. I feared for children on them. But I have seen how the new types are really good protections, what with a key for each tenant and a closed circuit television to make it possible to see what goes on in an elevator.

Besides, the elevator men tell me that the tips are not what they used to be and nobody wants to work in a house where the tips are lousy, even at Christmas time.

So, I say, let's make a try with the self-service elevator to see how it works out. If a landlord really cleans up a place, he is entitled to a little co-operation. But human nature being what it is, some will say, "The fellow bought the place; it's his headache." Being a conservative, even a reactionary, I think property, if well managed, should bring a profit, like any other business.

And They Call This The Jet Age

Even Kitchen Sink Used In Fruitless Strauss Fight

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON.

As a footnote to American political history, it is worth noting the kind of thing that was fruitlessly done to secure Admiral Lewis Strauss' confirmation as Secretary of Commerce.

In the Eisenhower years, real pressure has almost never been applied to make Congress see things as the President saw them. Dwight D. Eisenhower's line has generally been, "I propose, Congress disposes." In this instance, however, the White House threw everything at the Senate, figurately including even the kitchen sink, in a way that would have been considered just a mite shocking in other, less sacrosanct administrations.

It is impossible to discover whether President Eisenhower himself really knew about the things that were being done in his name. The chances are that in his simple military way, he merely gave the order, "Do everything you can to put over Lewis Strauss." In fact the chances are that the President himself will be just a mite shocked, if he ever learns how far Strauss and the White House staff went to win the confirmation which the Senate finally refused.

For example, President Eisenhower is heavily committed to a freer trade policy. Yet the promise that the future Secretary of Commerce would impose profitable restrictions on this country's world trade was freely used in the drive to win votes, as was the boast that he had already done so.

Among the Democrats who voted for Strauss, at least two Senators were frankly tempted by the bait of restrictions on imports of Japanese textiles. A determined effort was made to change the votes of two other Democratic Senators in the same way. But Senators Ervin and Jordan of North Carolina ignored the pleas of the large textile interests in their state, which had been stimulated by the pro-Strauss high command here in Washington.

Again, the appeal was made to Senators from oil-producing states that Admiral Strauss, almost alone among the President's close advisors, had argued for restricting imports of foreign petroleum products. One vote in the pro-Strauss Democratic list can perhaps be attributed to this appeal. Bust most of the Democrats appealed to in this way stood firm against the oil lobby, conspiciously including the two Texans.

Yet again, an indirect attempt was made to reach the two West Virginia Senators by a promised restriction on imports of petroleum residues from the Caribbean, which the coal interest have long desired. On this ground, representatives of the United Mineworkers, generally the most powerful single political entity in West Virginia, put strong pro-Strauss heat on Senators Byrd and Randolph. Randolph and the younger Byrd stoutly resisted, and they, like the North Carolina Senators, have earned much admiration from their colleagues.

In addition, there are rather well-attested reports of a vain attempt to gain more southern votes with a promise that the Republican members of the Senate Judiciary Committee would join Sen. Eastland of Mississippi and his cobelievers in refusing to report a civil rights bill at this session. Finally, and perhaps most important of all, the Senate has never experienced a similarly organized personal pressure campaign from grass roots business leaders.

One Senator's wife is known to have left Washington in protest against her husband's decision to vote for Strauss, as requested by a very rich man close to both Strauss and Eisenhower who makes a habit of contributing to Senatorial campaign funds. In another case, a leading Wyoming business man, in response to a request from Washington, telephoned Senator Gale McGee to "lay off Strauss." He warned McGee that the Jewish people in Wyoming were accusing him of anti-Semitism — which was a demonstrable lie. In still another case, the pro-Strauss forces were boasting, "We've got Herman Talmadge in the bag," because the President's golfing crony, Robert Woodruff, had called the junior Senator from Georgia to ask his support for the Admiral. Since Georgians generally bow to the head of the Coca-Cola Company, the expectations of the Straussites were perhaps understandable; but in the end Talmadge voted against Strauss.

It is perfect twaddle that there is no recent precedent for the Senate fight on Strauss. An exact parallel, in which the man's character was the predominant issue, was the Senate fight against Henry A. Wallace when he too was nominated for Secretary of Commerce.

On that occasion, however, President Roosevelt read the signs rightly. He accepted a deal stripping the secretaryship of Commerce of all real power, in return for getting Wallace confirmed to the empty title. On that occasion, moreover, the Roosevelt administration, so often accused of dictatorship, refrained from using anything like the methods that were used this time. As Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson warned his Republican opposite number, Everett Dirksen, the heat was so great that it helped to burn Strauss in the end.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

Thanks to the decline of imports from mainland China, commodity prices in Hong Kong have been stabilized in direct contrast to the wild fluctuation prevalent in the heyday of Communist dumping of commodities there.

A favorite Communist maneuver "to strike staggering blows at capitalism and colonialism" was to manipulate the local markets to the detriment of consumers and other competitors. Livestocks kept at Shen Chen, railroad border town on the Chinese side, were held up there when supplies in Hong Kong ran low and prices went up.

Communist exporters allowed trickles to come into Hong Kong to take full advantage of the soaring prices. When more shipments got in from Taipei and Bangkok, the Reds in Shen Chen ripped open the floodgates to permit torrents of pigs, ducks and chickens into the British crown colony in order to water down prices.

In this way non-Communist importers in Hong Kong suffered heavy losses as a result of the heavy dumping by the Communists, who took advantage of their geographical proximity. In fact, the dumping easily and conveniently began via the Canton-Kowloon railroad when non-Communist shipments were about to reach Hong Kong by sea. This trade offensive has now squeaked to a halt owing to the cutback in production in Communist China, especially in foodstuffs.

The people in southern China and other parts of the country are so hungry that visitors from Hong Kong are bringing in eatables including salt fish, salt pork, bread and rolls to their folk back home.

Simple Exercises To Develop Back Muscles

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Dr. Paul C. Williams has devised various simple exercisees to strengthen the muscles of the lower back. They can be done at home, preferrably on a padded floor. Go easy at first and increase gradually as muscle strength improves. In time, each exercise should be done from 15 to 40 times.

The first exercise is performed by lying on the back with the knees bent, the feet flat on the floor, and the arms extended over the head. Bring the arms forward and slowly raise the head, shoulders, and chest off the floor until the fingers touch the floor between the feet. Return slowly to the original position. Do not anchor the feet unless absoltely necessary.

Remain in the same position, but with the feet closer to the buttocks, and tilt the pelvis toward the heels by contracting the muscles of the buttocks. Hold the abdomen down with the hands to prevent the back from bending upwards.

The third exercise is done from the same position. Bring the knees to the chest and clasp the hands about the legs. The knees are spread slightly and pulled up forcibly toward the chest. Exercise four is performed from a sitting position with the knees extended. Bend forward and attempt to touch the toes with the fingers.

In exercise five, the individual stands on one leg and, as the knee is bent, the other leg is extended backward but held straight. Meanwhile, bend the chest forward with the arms dangling to the sides and bear the weight of the body on the ball of one foot. When this position is reached, settle gradually on the bent leg and go up and down several times.

The last exercise is the flat-foot squat in which the heels are placed 12 inches apart with the feet turned out at an angle of 30 degrees. Squat but keep the heels flat on the floor, to get the most from the exercise. The arms and elbows hang between the knees approximately eight inches in front of the toes. As you squat bend the head and touch the floor with the hands.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Shortly after he moved out of the White House, Calvin Coolidge sought rest and recreation at a fomous resort hotel. He was pleased with the service and surroundings, but appalled by the bill at the end of his first week.

Seeking the cashier for an explanation of some items on the bill, he recalled some unmailed letters in his pocket. "I'll need some two-cent stamps," he told the cashier's assistant. "Sure thing, Mr. President," said the clerk cheerily. "How many do you want?"

"That depends," said Mr. Coolidge cautiously, "on what you charge for them here."

George De Witt explains the difference between an after-dinner speaker and a toastmaster: "An after-dinner speaker makes a speech when there's half a grapefruit on the table, whereas a toastmaster won't orate unless the half grapefruit has a maraschino cherry in the center."

Eric Johnston Could Be Drafted For Secretary Of Commerce Duty

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — There has been a lot of speculation about the difficulty of getting a top businessman to serve as Secretary of Commerce. Actually, there are some excellent, dedicated men, well-versed in government, who could be drafted for the desk being vacated by Adm. Lewis Strauss.

Top on the list is Eric Johnston, long-time president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, now head of the motion picture industry. For years Johnston has been working faithfully without salary on foreign aid, strengthening NATO, defense mobilization and other unpopular causes. Few men know the economic machinery of government better than he.

Another who has served in semi-official capacities is Charley Taft, brother of the late Sen. Bob Taft. Another alert businessman is Chuck Percy, head of the Bell and Howell Camera Company, who heads a GOP policy committee.

Some businessmen of course want to wait until 1960 and the next Republican administration to get a four-year appointment. But if some of them don't bolster the Ike cabinet there may not be another GOP administration.

Note—The Secretary of Commerce doesn't have to be a big businessman, or even a businessman at all. Herbert Hoover was an engineer, not considered a businessman when he became Secretary of Commerce. Henry Wallace was a farmer, and Harry Hopkins had been a social worker.

Reversal Of "McCarthyism"

There's been a lot of speculation as to why Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, only lady in the Senate, caused the most dramatic moment of the Strauss confirmation vote when she joined Sen. Bill Langer of North Dakota as one of only two Republicans voting against Eisenhower.

As she voted, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona banged his fist on his desk and cursed audibly.

"G— —!" he exclaimed, "she won't get one cent of money from my committee for re-election."

Since Goldwater is chairman of the GOP committee which doles out funds for the re-election of Senators, this means a lot. It highlights all the more Mrs. Smith's courage in voting against Strauss. She knew what she was in for.

The answer to why she voted is twofold:

1. She had read the Strauss hearing record very carefully, marked the pages, and went to Sen. Clinton Anderson (D-N. M.) with question after question. Few Senators who studied the hearing voted for Strauss.

2. Senator Smith is a lady who has demonstrated her courage before. She was the first to speak out against Sen. Joe McCarthy with her declaration of conscience, when McCarthy was probably the most potent force in the land. Later McCarthy did his best to defeat her for re-election, but the people of Maine rallied vigorously to her defense.

The McCarthy issue was very much in the background of the Strauss battle. He had out-McCarthied McCarthy by putting Dr. Robert Oppenheimer on public trial and purging him from public life.

And perhaps the most significant fact about the Strauss defeat was the drastic manner in which public opinion has reversed itself in five short years. It was just five years ago that Strauss and McCarthy were riding high. Few criticized Strauss. He was riding roughshod over people who opposed him in the Atomic Energy Commission. But in five short years the pendulum swung into complete reverse.

New Senators With Courage

In all the editorialization over the Strauss defeat, one fact has been generally overlooked. His initial cross-examination began with freshman Senators. It was the men most recently elected who really unlimbered against the proposed Secretary of Commerce and, with only one defection, voted unanimously against him.

Other older Senators rallied to the battle. But even Sen. Clinton Anderson, who knew Strauss best, hesitated about making an issue of Strauss' confirmation.

However, the Senate Commerce Committee is heavily weighted with new Senators—Clair Engle (Calif.), Vance Hartke (Ind.), Gale McGee (Wyo.), Bob Bartlett (Alaska), and Ralph Yarborough (Texas), elected earlier but still in his first term. Taking their duties seriously, they began a thorough study of Admiral Strauss. Later such experienced Senators as Chairman Magnuson (Wash.), Monroney (Okla.), Smathers (Fla.), also on the committee, joined them.

But it was the newcomers who first rose up in righteous wrath against a cabinet member who had repeatedly thumbed his nose at Congress regarding the disclosure of important information to the public.

In the end, other first-term Senators, like Herman Talmadge of Georgia, joined them, even though one of the Senate's most senior Democrats, Richard Russell of Georgia, voted the other way. In fact, the only freshman Senator who voted for Strauss was Tom Dodd of Connecticut who was advised by Gov. Abe Ribicoff of his state to play up to the Jewish vote.

Home. . .

It is a lot more to me than the pink and black house in which I live. It is contentment, a slowing down of the stresses of making a living. It is a deep, easy chair, and the smell of a roast sizzling in its own juices. It's a familiar bed that knows every inch of a tired body.

More than anything else, home is Gayle, dark-haired and half a woman, bounding in, running out, playing that insufferable Rock and Roll, shielding her father from the world of women on the one hand, and telling him, like a confidential old crony, that he ought to get married in the next.

It is the thunder of the surf tolling the deep bells at night. It is a rack of unread magazines, a stack of Frankie Carle records, a typewriter, a green telephone, a medicine chest where I can find anything in the dark.

Home is a village a half mile away dotted with familiar faces. It is the rough jest of old friends, a pool table in the back of Jim Sullivan's tavern, an exchange of greetings with Clarence Stevens, the town clerk. It is ten minutes of browsing in Fowler's Hardware store, a little philosophy exchanged with pharmacist Goldberg, a whispered joke in Cy and Art's store.

It is the little river behind the house, racing to the sea, always making it, never making it, always running. It is the hill of Highlands, with its blind lighthouses; it is a pebbly road behind Locust Point where Arthur Brower lives.

Home is the buzz of bees, the smell of trampled sassafrass, honeysuckle after a summer shower. It is clear cool air and a rusty tramp on the horizon rolling to Rio. It's the boardwalk at Asbury Park, a rug auction, a hot dog. It is mass at Holy Cross, the unselfish affection of two police dogs, the sound of 3,000 leaves in a poplar tree talking back to a breeze.

Home is my Ginny, 9.8 miles to the west in Lincroft. No father will ever get more love than that girl can give in a glance. Home is her twin daughters, Robin and Pamela, the two-toothed grins, the wet kisses on the cheek, the incessant da-da-da-da. It is Charlie too, their father, a better son than I could hope for.

It is Rumson Road, beautiful Rumson Road, canopied with oaks, with an honor guard of red maples, and big homes full of small people. Home is the group of breeding farms, the switching tails of mares, the awkward scampering of colts.

Home is also the town of Red Bank, with its shops, its traffic, its heat. Home is Kislin's big store, Joe Irwin's yacht basin with the big boats and the little ones swinging at their moorings. Home is a big seawall across the street, a sea gull gliding up and down the shore, crying for fish she cannot see.

It is Chief Dundas, the friend who lives with me, working on the boat in old slacks and a sweater; it is Marvin Fowler bringing the mail and a smile; it is the frightening wail of the fire siren, crying hurry in the middle of the night.

Home is Mrs. Ralph Walter, who handles all the business of the office and knows more about it than I. Home is two wild ducks who fly in twice a week to drink from the fountain on the lawn and waddle around studying what passes for civilization.

It is an enclosed porch with a glider and aluminum chairs; a terrace on top of an old garage with a view of the sea; a cool dark tool shed where nothing is where I left it. Home is a color television set, a pine bar against a picture window, a state of mind.

It is many, many things. It is a picture of Elinor, a brass statue of Our Lady of Guadalupe, a rusty rifle hanging on a den wall. It is many books on many shelves, a ball point pen that refuses to write, a dripping faucet, the hum of an exhaust fan in the kitchen.

It is familiar drapes, the stout figure of Roberta Lane cooking everything a la Lynchburg, a rug with an old stain. Home is a worn pair of moccasins, a soiled bathrobe, an empty Kleenex container, a cherished memento in a bureau drawer.

I have lived in this building for more than 20 years because it is a comfortable, well-arranged building suitable for our purposes. The neighborhood, of course, changed as neighborhoods do in New York. When we moved here, this was one of the swellest streets in New York, but the rents were going down because of the Depression. However, there were still pleasant people in the building. And the landlord was an insurance company which had an efficient agent and the building was kept spotless and well-serviced.

Soon the building was sold to some Central Americans who took it as an investment against the day when the great dictator would have to run away. However, the Central Americans did not know much about managing our kind of a house. The brick turned black; the gray-facing took on a yellowish-brown color. The lobby became a shambles. Apparently every time they needed to do something, they had to consult somebody in Central America.

Then a thing happened which, although it was supposed to be secret, somehow got around. Apartments were rented for what they could get, so that some were paying high rents and some were paying very low rents. It was very unfair. And then somebody sold the Central Americans the idea of breaking up a few floors into small flats, some of which were so small as to be almost useless. And they rented out some apartments as boarding houses. The place became awful. And all the time, the Central Americans were weeping that they were losing money and that they wanted more rent. When the rent got high enough, some of the better tenants moved away.

We stayed on, hoping that things would work out. Besides, my dog, Joe, who is named after a celebrated Senator, barks a lot and here he is a popular dog. Elsewhere, who knows? In addition, it will cost a year's rent to move my stuff, including my books and files and records and such accumulations.

Then the Central Americans sold or leased the building—I am not privy to the deal—to an energetic young man who went to work cleaning it up and making it look like new. So the tenants organized a committee to protect themselves from the new landlord. They divided themselves rapidly into two groups: A. Those who were willing to pay a higher rent if they could get improved services; B. Those who were willing to accept the improved services but who refused to pay higher rents.

Meanwhile, the new man washed the front of the building until it looked like new. He improved the lobby until it looked quite decent, although I should have preferred less garish art. It is in the lobby that the first parental bad taste manifested itself, because some parents are so progressive that they do not care what their children do to other people's property.

Then there is a row over whether to put in self-service elevators or not. At first, I was against self-service elevators. I feared for children on them. But I have seen how the new types are really good protections, what with a key for each tenant and a closed circuit television to make it possible to see what goes on in an elevator.

Besides, the elevator men tell me that the tips are not what they used to be and nobody wants to work in a house where the tips are lousy, even at Christmas time.

So, I say, let's make a try with the self-service elevator to see how it works out. If a landlord really cleans up a place, he is entitled to a little co-operation. But human nature being what it is, some will say, "The fellow bought the place; it's his headache." Being a conservative, even a reactionary, I think property, if well managed, should bring a profit, like any other business.

And They Call This The Jet Age

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — There has been a lot of speculation about the difficulty of getting a top businessman to serve as Secretary of Commerce. Actually, there are some excellent, dedicated men, well-versed in government, who could be drafted for the desk being vacated by Adm. Lewis Strauss.

Top on the list is Eric Johnston, long-time president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, now head of the motion picture industry. For years Johnston has been working faithfully without salary on foreign aid, strengthening NATO, defense mobilization and other unpopular causes. Few men know the economic machinery of government better than he.

Another who has served in semi-official capacities is Charley Taft, brother of the late Sen. Bob Taft. Another alert businessman is Chuck Percy, head of the Bell and Howell Camera Company, who heads a GOP policy committee.

Some businessmen of course want to wait until 1960 and the next Republican administration to get a four-year appointment. But if some of them don't bolster the Ike cabinet there may not be another GOP administration.

Note—The Secretary of Commerce doesn't have to be a big businessman, or even a businessman at all. Herbert Hoover was an engineer, not considered a businessman when he became Secretary of Commerce. Henry Wallace was a farmer, and Harry Hopkins had been a social worker.

Reversal Of "McCarthyism"

There's been a lot of speculation as to why Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, only lady in the Senate, caused the most dramatic moment of the Strauss confirmation vote when she joined Sen. Bill Langer of North Dakota as one of only two Republicans voting against Eisenhower.

Since Goldwater is chairman of the GOP committee which doles out funds for the re-election of Senators, this means a lot. It highlights all the more Mrs. Smith's courage in voting against Strauss. She knew what she was in for.

The answer to why she voted is twofold:

1. She had read the Strauss hearing record very carefully, marked the pages, and went to Sen. Clinton Anderson (D-N. M.) with question after question. Few Senators who studied the hearing voted for Strauss.

2. Senator Smith is a lady who has demonstrated her courage before. She was the first to speak out against Sen. Joe McCarthy with her declaration of conscience, when McCarthy was probably the most potent force in the land. Later McCarthy did his best to defeat her for re-election, but the people of Maine rallied vigorously to her defense.

The McCarthy issue was very much in the background of the Strauss battle. He had out-McCarthied McCarthy by putting Dr. Robert Oppenheimer on public trial and purging him from public life.

And perhaps the most significant fact about the Strauss defeat was the drastic manner in which public opinion has reversed itself in five short years. It was just five years ago that Strauss and McCarthy were riding high. Few criticized Strauss. He was riding roughshod over people who opposed him in the Atomic Energy Commission. But in five short years the pendulum swung into complete reverse.

New Senators With Courage

In all the editorialization over the Strauss defeat, one fact has been generally overlooked. His initial cross-examination began with freshman Senators. It was the men most recently elected who really unlimbered against the proposed Secretary of Commerce and, with only one defection, voted unanimously against him.

Other older Senators rallied to the battle. But even Sen. Clinton Anderson, who knew Strauss best, hesitated about making an issue of Strauss' confirmation.

However, the Senate Commerce Committee is heavily weighted with new Senators—Clair Engle (Calif.), Vance Hartke (Ind.), Gale McGee (Wyo.), Bob Bartlett (Alaska), and Ralph Yarborough (Texas), elected earlier but still in his first term. Taking their duties seriously, they began a thorough study of Admiral Strauss. Later such experienced Senators as Chairman Magnuson (Wash.), Monroney (Okla.), Smathers (Fla.), also on the committee, joined them.

But it was the newcomers who first rose up in righteous wrath against a cabinet member who had repeatedly thumbed his nose at Congress regarding the disclosure of important information to the public.

In the end, other first-term Senators, like Herman Talmadge of Georgia, joined them, even though one of the Senate's most senior Democrats, Richard Russell of Georgia, voted the other way. In fact, the only freshman Senator who voted for Strauss was Tom Dodd of Connecticut who was advised by Gov. Abe Ribicoff of his state to play up to the Jewish vote.

Even Kitchen Sink Used In Fruitless Strauss Fight

By Joseph Aisop

WASHINGTON.

As a footnote to American political history, it is worth noting the kind of thing that was fruitlessly done to secure Admiral Lewis Strauss' confirmation as Secretary of Commerce.

In the Eisenhower years, real pressure has almost never been applied to make Congress see things as the President saw them. Dwight D. Eisenhower's line has generally been, "I propose, Congress disposes." In this instance, however, the White House threw everything at the Senate, figuratively including even the kitchen sink, in a way that would have been considered just a mite shocking in other, less sacrosanct administrations.

It is impossible to discover whether President Eisenhower himself really knew about the things that were being done in his name. The chances are that in his simple military way, he merely gave the order, "Do everything you can to put over Lewis Strauss." In fact the chances are that the President himself will be just a mite shocked, if he ever learns how far Strauss and the White House staff went to win the confirmation which the Senate finally refused.

For example, President Eisenhower is heavily committed to a freer trade policy. Yet the promise that the future Secretary of Commerce would impose profitable restrictions on this country's world trade was freely used in the drive to win votes, as was the boast that he had already done so.

Among the Democrats who voted for Strauss, at least two Senators were frankly tempted by the bait of restrictions on imports of Japanese textiles. A determined effort was made to change the votes of two other Democratic Senators in the same way. But Senators Ervin and Jordan of North Carolina ignored the pleas of the large textile interests in their state, which had been stimulated by the pro-Strauss high command here in Washington.

Again, the appeal was made to Senators from oil-producing states that Admiral Strauss, almost alone among the President's close advisors, had argued for restricting imports of foreign petroleum products. One vote in the pro-Strauss Democratic list can perhaps be attributed to this appeal. Bust most of the Democrats appealed to in this way stood firm against the oil lobby, conspiciously including the two Texans.

Yet again, an indirect attempt was made to reach the two West Virginia Senators by a promised restriction on imports of petroleum residues from the Caribbean, which the coal interest have long desired. On this ground, representatives of the United Mineworkers, generally the most powerful single political entity in West Virginia, put strong pro-Strauss heat on Senators Byrd and Randolph. Randolph and the younger Byrd stoutly resisted, and they, like the North Carolina Senators, have earned much admiration from their colleagues.

In addition, there are rather well-attested reports of a vain attempt to gain more southern votes with a promise that the Republican members of the Senate Judiciary Committee would join Sen. Eastland of Mississippi and his cobelievers in refusing to report a civil rights bill at this session. Finally, and perhaps most important of all, the Senate has never experienced a similarly organized personal pressure campaign from grass roots business leaders.

One Senator's wife is known to have left Washington in protest against her husband's decision to vote for Strauss, as requested by a very rich man close to both Strauss and Eisenhower who makes a habit of contributing to Senatorial campaign funds. In another case, a leading Wyoming business man, in response to a request from Washington, telephoned Senator Gale McGee to "lay off Strauss." He warned McGee that the Jewish people in Wyoming were accusing him of anti-Semitism — which was a demonstrable lie. In still another case, the pro-Strauss forces were boasting, "We've got Herman Talmadge in the bag," because the President's golfing crony, Robert Woodruff, had called the junior Senator from Georgia to ask his support for the Admiral. Since Georgians generally bow to the head of the Coca-Cola Company, the expectations of the Straussites were perhaps understandable; but in the end Talmadge voted against Strauss.

It is perfect twaddle that there is no recent precedent for the Senate fight on Strauss. An exact parallel, in which the man's character was the predominant issue, was the Senate fight against Henry A. Wallace when he too was nominated for Secretary of Commerce.

On that occasion, however, President Roosevelt read the signs rightly. He accepted a deal stripping the secretaryship of Commerce of all real power, in return for getting Wallace confirmed to the empty title. On that occasion, moreover, the Roosevelt administration, so often accused of dictatorship, refrained from using anything like the methods that were used this time. As Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson warned his Republican opposite number, Everett Dirksen, the heat was so great that it helped to burn Strauss in the end.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

Thanks to the decline of imports from mainland China, commodity prices in Hong Kong have been stabilized in direct contrast to the wild fluctuation prevalent in the heyday of Communist dumping of commodities there.

A favorite Communist maneuver "to strike staggering blows at capitalism and colonialism" was to manipulate the local markets to the detriment of consumers and other competitors. Livestocks kept at Shen Chen, railroad border town on the Chinese side, were held up there when supplies in Hong Kong ran low and prices went up.

Communist exporters allowed trickles to come into Hong Kong to take full advantage of the soaring prices. When more shipments got in from Taipei and Bangkok, the Reds in Shen Chen ripped open the floodgates to permit torrents of pigs, ducks and chickens into the British crown colony in order to water down prices.

In this way non-Communist importers in Hong Kong suffered heavy losses as a result of the heavy dumping by the Communists, who took advantage of their geographical proximity. In fact, the dumping easily and conveniently began via the Canton-Kowloon railroad when non-Communist shipments were about to reach Hong Kong by sea. This trade offensive has now squeaked to a halt owing to the cutback in production in Communist China, especially in foodstuffs.

The people in southern China and other parts of the country are so hungry that visitors from Hong Kong are bringing in eatables including salt fish, salt pork, bread and rolls to their folk back home.

Home. . .

It is a lot more to me than the pink and black house in which I live. It is contentment, a slowing down of the stresses of making a living. It is a deep, easy chair, and the smell of a roast sizzling in its own juices. It's a familiar bed that knows every inch of a tired body.

More than anything else, home is Gayle, dark-haired and half a woman, bounding in, running out, playing that insufferable Rock and Roll, shielding her father from the world of women on the one hand, and telling him, like a confidential old crony, that he ought to get married in the next.

It is the thunder of the surf tolling the deep bells at night. It is a rack of unread magazines, a stack of Frankie Carle records, a typewriter, a green telephone, a medicine chest where I can find anything in the dark.

Home is a village a half mile away dotted with familiar faces. It is the rough jest of old friends, a pool table in the back of Jim Sullivan's tavern, an exchange of greetings with Clarence Stevens, the town clerk. It is ten minutes of browsing in Fowler's Hardware store, a little philosophy exchanged with pharmacist Goldberg, a whispered joke in Cy and Art's store.

It is the little river behind the house, racing to the sea, always making it, never making it, always running. It is the hill of Highlands, with its blind lighthouses; it is a pebbly road behind Locust Point where Arthur Brower lives.

Home is the buzz of bees, the smell of trampled sassafrass, honeysuckle after a summer shower. It is clear cool air and a rusty tramp on the horizon rolling to Rio. It's the boardwalk at Asbury Park, a rug auction, a hot dog. It is mass at Holy Cross, the unselfish affection of two police dogs, the sound of 3,000 leaves in a poplar tree talking back to a breeze.

Home is my Ginny, 9.8 miles to the west in Lincroft. No father will ever get more love than that girl can give in a glance. Home is her twin daughters, Robin and Pamela, the two-toothed grins, the wet kisses on the cheek, the incessant da-da-da-da. It is Charlie too, their father, a better son than I could hope for.

It is Rumson Road, beautiful Rumson Road, canopied with oaks, with an honor guard of red maples, and big homes full of small people. Home is the group of breeding farms, the switching tails of mares, the awkward scampering of colts.

Home is also the town of Red Bank, with its shops, its traffic, its heat. Home is Kislin's big store, Joe Irwin's yacht basin with the big boats and the little ones swinging at their moorings. Home is a big seawall across the street, a sea gull gliding up and down the shore, crying for fish she cannot see.

It is Chief Dundas, the friend who lives with me, working on the boat in old slacks and a sweater; it is Marvin Fowler bringing the mail and a smile; it is the frightening wail of the fire siren, crying hurry in the middle of the night.

Home is Mrs. Ralph Walter, who handles all the business of the office and knows more about it than I. Home is two wild ducks who fly in twice a week to drink from the fountain on the lawn and waddle around studying what passes for civilization.

It is an enclosed porch with a glider and aluminum chairs; a terrace on top of an old garage with a view of the sea; a cool dark tool shed where nothing is where I left it. Home is a color television set, a pine bar against a picture window, a state of mind.

It is many, many things. It is a picture of Elinor, a brass statue of Our Lady of Guadalupe, a rusty rifle hanging on a den wall. It is many books on many shelves, a ball point pen that refuses to write, a dripping faucet, the hum of an exhaust fan in the kitchen.

Simple Exercises To Develop Back Muscles

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Dr. Paul C. Williams has devised various simple exercisees to strengthen the muscles of the lower back. They can be done at home, preferrably on a padded floor. Go easy at first and increase gradually as muscle strength improves. In time, each exercise should be done from 15 to 40 times.

The first exercise is performed by lying on the back with the knees bent, the feet flat on the floor, and the arms extended over the head. Bring the arms forward and slowly raise the head, shoulders, and chest off the floor until the fingers touch the floor between the feet. Return slowly to the original position. Do not anchor the feet unless absoltely necessary.

Remain in the same position, but with the feet closer to the buttocks, and tilt the pelvis toward the heels by contracting the muscles of the buttocks. Hold the abdomen down with the hands to prevent the back from bending upwards.

The third exercise is done from the same position. Bring the knees to the chest and clasp the hands about the legs. The knees are spread slightly and pulled up forcibly toward the chest. Exercise four is performed from a sitting position with the knees extended. Bend forward and attempt to touch the toes with the fingers.

In exercise five, the individual stands on one leg and, as the knee is bent, the other leg is extended backward but held straight. Meanwhile, bend the chest forward with the arms dangling to the sides and bear the weight of the body on the ball of one foot. When this position is reached, settle gradually on the bent leg and go up and down several times.

The last exercise is the flat-foot squat in which the heels are placed 12 inches apart with the feet turned out at an angle of 30 degrees. Squat but keep the heels flat on the floor, to get the most from the exercise. The arms and elbows hang between the knees approximately eight inches in front of the toes. As you squat bend the head and touch the floor with the hands.

SPOON NAILS

Mrs. F. writes: Our nine-year-old daughter has had spoon nails since age five. The doctor is vague whenever I ask him about the condition. Do you think there is any cure?

REPLY

Possibly, depending upon the cause. The hereditary type cannot be corrected, whereas there is some hope when the abnormality is caused by infection, eczema, anemia, or the immersion of the hands in strong alkalis.

DOESN'T TRUST DOCTORS

J. C. M. I haven't been to a doctor for years, as I think it's a lost cause. I have a severe case of flu and am taking the medicine prescribed a long time ago. What would you suggest that I do?

REPLY

You've had *your money's worth. Why not re-invest in a more up to date medicine or a flu shot to prevent the disease from developing?

BROKEN HEART

L. C. writes: Is there literally such a thing as a broken heart?

REPLY

Yes, but not from love. An extensive heart attack may leave the cardiac muscle so soft that it breaks open.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Seeking the cashier for an explanation of some items on the bill, he recalled some unmailed letters in his pocket. "I'll need some two-cent stamps," he told the cashier's assistant. "Sure thing, Mr. President," said the clerk cheerily. "How many do you want?"

"That depends," said Mr. Coolidge cautiously, "on what you charge for them here."

Orioles Trim Cleveland, 5-1, Trail By 1½ Games

Pappas Holds Loop Leaders To Five Hits

Milt Scores 7th Victory; 17,979 Attend Contest

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Baltimore Orioles, behind Milt Pappas' five-hit pitching, soared to within 1½ games of the American League lead Tuesday night by beating the first-place Cleveland Indians, 5-1.

Pappas, winning his seventh game against three defeats, lost a shutout in the eighth when Woodie Held hit his 12th homer of the year. The only other Indian hits were singles by loser Gary Bell, Vic Power, Tito Francona and Rocky Colavito.

The Orioles gave Pappas a 2-0 lead in the third inning and then KO'd Bell with three more runs in the sixth.

Bell, whose record dropped to 6-7, walked himself into the early trouble. After Willie Tasby and Gene Woodling drew passes in the third, Bob Nieman singled for one run. Gus Triandos followed with a single for the other.

A walk to Billy Klaus, Billy Gardner's double and consecutive singles by Willie Miranda, Pappas and Tasby accounted for three more runs in the sixth. Miranda, Pappas and Tasby got the RBIs.

The crowd of 17,979 was the second largest ever to watch the two teams in a night game here. Biggest audience for the Orioles was 19,323 on Aug. 13, 1954, the year they returned to the American League.

Homers by Bob Barth, Bernie Loar, Gary Barb and Barry Phillips highlighted Barrelville's 14-hit assault. Phillips got two singles in addition to his homer and Barb also had a single. The win went to reliefer Colen Kennell, who replaced Bob Walsh in the fourth. Tim Byrne was the loser.

Gary "Moose" Orendorf had three hits and John Robb two for the Orioles.

Tri-State reeled off its fourth straight win and moved within a game of the .500 mark by trimming Ellerslie. While George Strickland was scattering seven hits his mates racked up a total of 11, including two triples and a double by Roger Wilt, a triple and single by Jerry Phillips and a double and two singles by Steve Lee. Johnson accounted for three of the losers' seven bingles.

Prospects Are Lean

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — A prospective lean harvest of sour cherries in the Shenandoah valley started this week.

The Shenandoah Cherry Growers Assn. estimated that last week's strong winds damaged from 15 to 40 per cent of the crop. Overall, the growers figured the crop may equal only half of last year's 2,800 tons.

Cards Beaten By Milwaukee

Crandall Batting Star In 9-5 Win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Veteran catcher Del Crandall drove in 4 runs with a double and a homer Tuesday night in propelling the Milwaukee Braves to a 9-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Crandall's 12th homer of the year came after Joe Adcock had walked and broke a 3-3 deadlock in the fifth inning. Wes Covington followed Crandall's blast with his fifth homer.

Boston Trims Tigers, 10-4

Williams, Malzone, Jensen Hit Homers

DETROIT (UPI) — Ted Williams, Jackie Jensen and Frank Malzone lined homers Tuesday night to lead the Boston Red Sox to a 10-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

All of the Boston homers came in the last two innings off reliefer Dave Sisler and turned a tight 5-4 game into a walk-away for the Red Sox.

Williams returned to the lineup after nine days on the bench for weak hitting and responded with a homer and a single in three official trips to the plate. He entered the game batting only .189 but his single set up what proved to be the winning run and his homer, leading off in the eighth, gave Boston a 6-4 edge.

Ike Delock went the distance and held the Tigers to only five hits. But Detroit took advantage of a comedy of three Boston errors to score three times in the third.

Boston kayoed Detroit starter Paul Foytack in the first inning when Pete Runnels and Williams walked. Jensen singled a run home. Malzone doubled for two more runs and Gernert scored Malzone with a base hit.

Wynn Scores For Chicago

White Sox Trim Washington, 4-1

CHICAGO (UPI) — Early Wynn got sparkling help from his Chicago White Sox outfielders Tuesday night to earn his 10th victory of the season with a 4-1 triumph over the Washington Senators to lift the Sox within one game of first place in the American League.

Three times in the first three innings the Sox outfielders threw out Washington base runners at home. In the second, Hal Naragon doubled and was cut down by Jim Landis' throw to catch Sherm Lollar after Ron Samford's single.

Lollar hit his 8th homer after a Harry Simpson double in the eighth for the Sox' last two runs, and both earlier scores, one of them unearned, were driven in by Earl Torgeson.

Bob Allison got his 19th homer for Washington's only run. Wynn, although he struck out seven to run his career total to 1,905, was shaky throughout, walking three and allowing eight hits. Still he became the league's winningest pitcher, moving ahead of Baltimore's Hoyt Wilhelm, with nine victories. The Sox got eight hits off the Senators' hurler Bill Fischer.

B'nai B'rith, Rotarians Win Overtime Tilts

Kiwanis Bows, 6-4; Lions Beaten, 4-3

In a pair of extra inning games, B'nai B'rith was returned the winner over the Kiwanis Club, 6-4, and the Rotary Club edged the Lions Club, 4-3, in Hot Stove Baseball League action yesterday at Mason Road Field and Penn Avenue Field.

Jimmy Powelson, Kiwanis Club strikeout artist, whiffed 17 and had a no-hitter going for five innings but lost the game in the eighth inning when Larry Peters belted a long home run to centerfield after Kenny Deatelhauser got a life on an error.

Deatelhauser, who supplanted DelaGrange in the 6th, got credit for the victory. The B'nai B'rith pitchers fanned a total of eight.

Peters hit a homer and single and Tommy Hopwood also a pair of base knocks for B'nai B'rith. Hanekamp slammed two home runs and Diamond pounded a triple for the Kiwanians.

A walk, stolen base and two errors produced the eighth inning tally that gave Lonnie Jackson's Rotarians the decision over the Lions Club last night at Penn Avenue Field.

Ronnie Manges went the route for Rotary and mowed down a total of 21 Lions via the strikeout route. Mike Miller and Colen Smith, who shared the pitching duties for the Lions, fanned a total of 20. It was the third extra game played by the Rotarians and their second win.

Pappas Holds Loop Leaders To Five Hits

Milt Scores 7th Victory; 17,979 Attend Contest

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Baltimore Orioles, behind Milt Pappas' five-hit pitching, soared to within 1½ games of the American League lead Tuesday night by beating the first-place Cleveland Indians, 5-1.

Pappas, winning his seventh game against three defeats, lost a shutout in the eighth when Woodie Held hit his 12th homer of the year. The only other Indian hits were singles by loser Gary Bell, Vic Power, Tito Francona and Rocky Colavito.

The Orioles gave Pappas a 2-0 lead in the third inning and then KO'd Bell with three more runs in the sixth.

Bell, whose record dropped to 6-7, walked himself into the early trouble. After Willie Tasby and Gene Woodling drew passes in the third, Bob Nieman singled for one run. Gus Triandos followed with a single for the other.

A walk to Billy Klaus, Billy Gardner's double and consecutive singles by Willie Miranda, Pappas and Tasby accounted for three more runs in the sixth. Miranda, Pappas and Tasby got the RBIs.

The crowd of 17,979 was the second largest ever to watch the two teams in a night game here. Biggest audience for the Orioles was 19,323 on Aug. 13, 1954, the year they returned to the American League.

The Shenandoah Cherry Growers Assn. estimated that last week's strong winds damaged from 15 to 40 per cent of the crop. Overall, the growers figured the crop may equal only half of last year's 2,800 tons.

Crandall Batting Star In 9-5 Win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Veteran catcher Del Crandall drove in 4 runs with a double and a homer Tuesday night in propelling the Milwaukee Braves to a 9-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Crandall's 12th homer of the year came after Joe Adcock had walked and broke a 3-3 deadlock in the fifth inning. Wes Covington followed Crandall's blast with his fifth homer.

Milwaukee right-hander Carl Willey picked up his third victory of the season by settling down after a shaky start and scattering a total of 10 hits.

Boston Trims Tigers, 10-4

Williams, Malzone, Jensen Hit Homers

DETROIT (UPI) — Ted Williams, Jackie Jensen and Frank Malzone lined homers Tuesday night to lead the Boston Red Sox to a 10-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

All of the Boston homers came in the last two innings off reliefer Dave Sisler and turned a tight 5-4 game into a walk-away for the Red Sox.

Williams returned to the lineup after nine days on the bench for weak hitting and responded with a homer and a single in three official trips to the plate. He entered the game batting only .189 but his single set up what proved to be the winning run and his homer, leading off in the eighth, gave Boston a 6-4 edge.

Ike Delock went the distance and held the Tigers to only five hits. But Detroit took advantage of a comedy of three Boston errors to score three times in the third.

Boston kayoed Detroit starter Paul Foytack in the first inning when Pete Runnels and Williams walked. Jensen singled a run home. Malzone doubled for two more runs and Gernert scored Malzone with a base hit.

Wynn Scores For Chicago

White Sox Trim Washington, 4-1

CHICAGO (UPI) — Early Wynn got sparkling help from his Chicago White Sox outfielders Tuesday night to earn his 10th victory of the season with a 4-1 triumph over the Washington Senators to lift the Sox within one game of first place in the American League.

Three times in the first three innings the Sox outfielders threw out Washington base runners at home. In the second, Hal Naragon doubled and was cut down by Jim Landis' throw to catch Sherm Lollar after Ron Samford's single.

Lollar hit his 8th homer after a Harry Simpson double in the eighth for the Sox' last two runs, and both earlier scores, one of them unearned, were driven in by Earl Torgeson.

Bob Allison got his 19th homer for Washington's only run. Wynn, although he struck out seven to run his career total to 1,905, was shaky throughout, walking three and allowing eight hits. Still he became the league's winningest pitcher, moving ahead of Baltimore's Hoyt Wilhelm, with nine victories. The Sox got eight hits off the Senators' hurler Bill Fischer.

52 Of 64 Writers Pick Patterson To Whip Johansson

Floyd Made 4-1 Choice Over Swede

Gate At New York On Thursday Night May Top $600,000

By JACK CUDDY
United Press International

NEW YORK (PUI) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson became a 4-1 favorite Tuesday night to beat Ingemar Johansson in Thursday's title fight when the odds rose a half-point.

Meanwhile, promoter Bill Rosohn told a press luncheon that the advance sale had hit $450,000 and that he expected the gate at Yankee Stadium to exceed $600,000.

"It should go higher," Rosensohn said, "because the long-range weather forecast says fair and warm."

52 Of 64 Pick Champ

A United Press International poll of 64 sport writers at the luncheon showed 52 picking Patterson to beat the Swedish challenger, and 12 favoring Ingemar. Fifteen Swedish writers in the poll were almost split. Eight picked Ingemar; seven, Patterson.

Continue Meeting

An executive meeting of the New York State Athletic Commission, studying the fight contracts for theatre-TV, radio and movies, continued its session to Wednesday. Irving B. Kahn, president of Teleprompter Corp. and attorney Edwin Schweig were closeted lengthily with the commissioners.

The commission wants exact information on what purse the "Floyd Patterson Enterprises" will get from theatre-TV, radio and movies, so that the state will be able to tax it. Patterson's advisors and Kahn are relucant to disclose the contracts.

Patterson, who finished his sparring Monday and tapered off with four miles on the road this morning, motored into New York from his camp at Chatham, N.J., and appeared briefly at the commission. He returned to camp late Tuesday.

Theatre-TV Keeps Pace

During the press luncheon, Kahn said reports from 170 "locations" in 135 cities showed that the sale of seats for theatre-TV showings of the fight was keeping pace with the sale two days before the second Ray Robinson-Carmen Basilio fight in March, 1958. The theatre-TV take on that bout netted about $1,400,000. He said a total of 550,000 seats have been made available this time, about 50,000 more than previously.

Jack Solomons and Harry Levene, London's rival boxing promotoers, attended the luncheon and split on their fight forecasts. Solomons picked Johansson on a knockout "in five or six rounds." Levene said, Floyd on a kayo within 15."

Although 4-1 is the conservative Broadway betting price (man to man), some bookmakers were quoting as high as 5-1. One bookie said, "we're laying 4-1 and taking 6-1." That would make the friendly, man-to-man odds 5-1.

Delaware Park Has Three Payoffs On Daily Double

Meeting's Biggest Is Worth $1,108.20

STANTON, Del., June 23 (AP) — A racing rarity — three daily double payoffs, including the biggest of the 22-day old meeting to date—highlighted today's racing program at Delaware Park.

Mrs. Fendall M. Claggett's homebred 2 - year - old gelding, Heliobubble, sprang a big upset by winning the first race to pay $139.40. John A. Manfuso's Apple Dumpling took the second contest for a $17.20 return, completing a daily double worth $1,108.20.

While the horses were at the starting gate for the second race, Nancy's Wish became unruly and unseated Jockey William Peake. The filly injured herself and also South Wisner, who was in the next stall. Both horses were ordered withdrawn from the race, which meant a refund on both in that race and two consolation daily double payoffs.

Those who coupled Heliobubble, winner of the first event, with Nancy's Wish drew down $74.40, while those with tickets on Heliobubble and South Wisner collected $101.80.

Heliobubble had started three times, finishing fifth, eighth and tenth in that order, beaten approximately 10 lengths each time. Today, with Harold Keene up, he rallied from eighth position early to score by a neck over Settee, with the fancied Florin Third. Apple Dumpling had an easier time capturing the second race, spurting from close off the early pace to register by a length and three quarters over Atropos. Chester County was third and the favorite, Hyclar, fourth. Frank Lovato was astride Apple Dumpling.

Winning tickets on the Heliobubble-Apple Dumpling combination included one $10 ticket and 66 two dollar tickets. As for the consolation doubles, 21 two dollar tickets were sold on Heliobubble and Nancy's Wish, and 41 two dollar tickets on Heliobubble and South Wisner.

52 Of 64 Writers Pick Patterson To Whip Johansson

Floyd Made 4-1 Choice Over Swede

Gate At New York On Thursday Night May Top $600,000

By JACK CUDDY
United Press International

NEW YORK (PUI) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson became a 4-1 favorite Tuesday night to beat Ingemar Johansson in Thursday's title fight when the odds rose a half-point.

"Heavy support for the champion and lack of money for Johansson caused the rise," a Broadway sportsman explained.

Meanwhile, promoter Bill Rosohn told a press luncheon that the advance sale had hit $450,000 and that he expected the gate at Yankee Stadium to exceed $600,000.

"It should go higher," Rosensohn said, "because the long-range weather forecast says fair and warm."

52 Of 64 Pick Champ

A United Press International poll of 64 sport writers at the luncheon showed 52 picking Patterson to beat the Swedish challenger, and 12 favoring Ingemar. Fifteen Swedish writers in the poll were almost split. Eight picked Ingemar; seven, Patterson.

Continue Meeting

An executive meeting of the New York State Athletic Commission, studying the fight contracts for theatre-TV, radio and movies, continued its session to Wednesday. Irving B. Kahn, president of Teleprompter Corp. and attorney Edwin Schweig were closeted lengthily with the commissioners.

The commission wants exact information on what purse the "Floyd Patterson Enterprises" will get from theatre-TV, radio and movies, so that the state will be able to tax it. Patterson's advisors and Kahn are relucant to disclose the contracts.

Patterson, who finished his sparring Monday and tapered off with four miles on the road this morning, motored into New York from his camp at Chatham, N.J., and appeared briefly at the commission. He returned to camp late Tuesday.

Theatre-TV Keeps Pace

During the press luncheon, Kahn said reports from 170 "locations" in 135 cities showed that the sale of seats for theatre-TV showings of the fight was keeping pace with the sale two days before the second Ray Robinson-Carmen Basilio fight in March, 1958. The theatre-TV take on that bout netted about $1,400,000. He said a total of 550,000 seats have been made available this time, about 50,000 more than previously.

Jack Solomons and Harry Levene, London's rival boxing promotoers, attended the luncheon and split on their fight forecasts. Solomons picked Johansson on a knockout "in five or six rounds." Levene said, Floyd on a kayo within 15."

Although 4-1 is the conservative Broadway betting price (man to man), some bookmakers were quoting as high as 5-1. One bookie said, "we're laying 4-1 and taking 6-1." That would make the friendly, man-to-man odds 5-1.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — There will be no restraining order or contempt of court action from Marlon Brando when Anna Kashfi takes their son Devi (real name Christian) to London for "The Singing Mountain."

Talking with a friend between scenes of "Adventures in Paradise" at 20th, Anna was asked if Marlon would object. She replied, "there is no reason to believe he would — he has not interferred with any of my plans for Devi".

After the picture in London, she wants to take Devi to India to visit relatives and friends, and she's in no hurry to get back to Hollywood. Of course, a really big part would change her mind for Anna is more serious about her career now than at any time since she married and divorced Marlon.

With "The Nun's Story" lining them up on the sidewalks in front of the Music Hall in New York, nothing could be less surprising than Jack Warner tagging Peter Finch for a second picture, "Rachel Cade." Finch plays the dynamic Dr. Fortunati in "Nun's Story" and he is a big click with the critics and fans.

"Rachel Cade" will team him with Carroll Baker in Hollywood. Although Producer Henry Blanke has the script ready to go, he'll wait for Finch to complete "Kidnapped" for Walt Disney in London before calling "camera" on the Warner picture.

Gower Champion spends his birthday, July 22, packing his top hat and tails for the trip to Russia where he and Marg will be the first Hollywood dancers to perform there. The Champions have accepted the invitation of the State Department to join the Ed Sullivan Show which also numbers Rise Stevens, Nora Kay and many others. They'll perform in Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev. While this all comes under the head of "cultural exchange" and I suppose some good comes of it all (the Bolshoi Ballet broke all records here) — anybody who wants it can have my part of a trip to Russia.

Fred Astaire's attractive daughter Ava is visiting her Aunt Adele (Mrs. Kingman Douglas) in New York, and both of them flew to Washington to hear Fred speak. He's drum - beating for his book "Steps in Time," and returns to N.Y., to visit his sister and dancing partner of long ago.

Adele plans to take Ava to Europe late this summer and introduce her to the nieces and nephews of many friends she made when she was Lady Cavendish living in Ireland.

There's a platinum lining in every cloud. When Ruth Dubonnet returned home after breaking up with her longtime boyfriend Jule Styne, Andre Dubonnet, her ex-husband met her. He invited her to go on a trip to Germany, and those close to the picture believe they may reconcile, since his long romance with Elys Hunt has also waned.

Andre and Ruth have remained friends even though they have been separated for some years.

While Connie Moore is starring in the new company of "Bells Are Ringing" playing Judy Holliday's part, her husband Johnny Mashio will be busy in Hollywood heading the new Bernard L. Schubert, Inc., West Coast offices. Johnny, a veteran of all phases of movie and TV, having been a vice president of Leland Hayward Inc., a partner of Sam Jaffe and president of his own agency, will concentrate on new properties and talent for the TV film company. Schubert's current TV shows are "The New Adventures of Mr. and Mrs. North," "David Harding, Counterspy" and "Alexander the Great."

Churchill's Son Says Illness "Spared" Eden

LONDON (AP)—A book by Randolph Churchill claims Sir Anthony Eden was within weeks of being ousted as prime minister when ill health forced him to resign in 1957.

In "The Rise and Fall of Sir Anthony Eden," the journalist son of Sir Winston Churchill makes a biting appraisal of the statesman who married into his family and was his father's closest political colleague. The book was to be published Monday.

Setting the scene before Eden led Britain into the abortive 1956 Suez invasion, Churchill writes: "A number of his most powerful and perspicacious colleagues had begun to doubt whether he was the pilot to weather the storm: His tenure of office could not have been prolonged for more than a few weeks."

Without saying by what method Eden could have been removed from office, Churchill goes on: "Even before the Suez adventure, many of his colleagues felt he was inadequate for the task and would have to be replaced as quickly and kindly as possible by someone with a more robust political stamina."

While recognizing Eden's qualities of charm and good looks, Churchill writes that when the former Prime Minister came to office in April 1955 "his widespread popularity at home and abroad and his knowledge and supposed understanding of men and affairs misled nearly everyone into supposing he was likely to be a successful prime miniser.

"Few there were even among those who had already detected the fundamental defects in his character who can have surmised the catastrophe in which his carefully nurtured career was soon to be engulfed."

Churchill's Son Says Illness "Spared" Eden

LONDON (AP)—A book by Randolph Churchill claims Sir Anthony Eden was within weeks of being ousted as prime minister when ill health forced him to resign in 1957.

In "The Rise and Fall of Sir Anthony Eden," the journalist son of Sir Winston Churchill makes a biting appraisal of the statesman who married into his family and was his father's closest political colleague. The book was to be published Monday.

Setting the scene before Eden led Britain into the abortive 1956 Suez invasion, Churchill writes: "A number of his most powerful and perspicacious colleagues had begun to doubt whether he was the pilot to weather the storm: His tenure of office could not have been prolonged for more than a few weeks."

Without saying by what method Eden could have been removed from office, Churchill goes on: "Even before the Suez adventure, many of his colleagues felt he was inadequate for the task and would have to be replaced as quickly and kindly as possible by someone with a more robust political stamina."

While recognizing Eden's qualities of charm and good looks, Churchill writes that when the former Prime Minister came to office in April 1955 "his widespread popularity at home and abroad and his knowledge and supposed understanding of men and affairs misled nearly everyone into supposing he was likely to be a successful prime miniser.

"Few there were even among those who had already detected the fundamental defects in his character who can have surmised the catastrophe in which his carefully nurtured career was soon to be engulfed."

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear beloved son, Wolford Perando, who was killed 10 years ago, June 23, 1949.
No one knows the silent heartache,
Only those who have lost can tell,
Of the grief that's borne in silence
For the one we loved so well.
Mom, Dad, Brother, Sister
Children

In loving memory of our dearly beloved son and brother, John R. Whetstone who passed away June 23, 1950.
Our hearts still ache with sadness,
Our eyes shed many tears:
God knows how much we miss you,
At the end of nine long years.
Sadly missed by Mother, Dad and Brothers

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear beloved son, Wolford Perando, who was killed 10 years ago, June 23, 1949.
No one knows the silent heartache,
Only those who have lost can tell,
Of the grief that's borne in silence
Mom, Dad, Brother, Sister
Children

In loving memory of our dearly beloved son and brother, John R. Whetstone who passed away June 23, 1950.
Our hearts still ache with sadness,
Our eyes shed many tears:
God knows how much we miss you,
At the end of nine long years.
Sadly missed by Mother, Dad and Brothers

The bidding:

North	East	South	West

2 ♥	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	5 ♦	Pass
6 ♦	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♥.

After West's one heart overcall, North wished to insist on a game contract so he made a cue bid. The three club rebid by South was a forced temporizing measure. North next showed the diamond support and, South who had done little so far, leaped to game in diamonds. Reassured about the texture of his partner's trump holding, North went on to slam.

West opened the king of hearts which was ruffed in dummy and declarer had a moment of remorse over not having contracted for all the tricks. With this thought before him he played as though he had bid a grand slam. He cashed the queen and king of trumps and, when East showed out, it was too late to retrieve the slam. Declarer could ruff one more heart, but that was all. If he abandoned trumps temporarily and tried to run the clubs, West would ruff the second round, lead another heart and South would be unable to get out of the dumm, without permitting West to score another trump trick.

We must confess that declarer's error was a rather human one. However, when large rewards are waiting to be reaped, extraordinary precautions would seem to be in order and a 4-1 trump break is by no means an oddity. Declarer should be willing to give up 30 points to increase the safety of the contract. The play that locks up the reward is to lead a low diamond from dummy and put in the eight. When it loses, South is in position to draw trumps and run the clubs.

Opening lead: King of ♥.

A desire to take all the tricks resulted in the loss of a vulnerable slam contract today.

After West's one heart overcall, North wished to insist on a game contract so he made a cue bid. The three club rebid by South was a forced temporizing measure. North next showed the diamond support and, South who had done little so far, leaped to game in diamonds. Reassured about the texture of his partner's trump holding, North went on to slam.

West opened the king of hearts which was ruffed in dummy and declarer had a moment of remorse over not having contracted for all the tricks. With this thought before him he played as though he had bid a grand slam. He cashed the queen and king of trumps and, when East showed out, it was too late to retrieve the slam. Declarer could ruff one more heart, but that was all. If he abandoned trumps temporarily and tried to run the clubs, West would ruff the second round, lead another heart and South would be unable to get out of the dumm, without permitting West to score another trump trick.

We must confess that declarer's error was a rather human one. However, when large rewards are waiting to be reaped, extraordinary precautions would seem to be in order and a 4-1 trump break is by no means an oddity. Declarer should be willing to give up 30 points to increase the safety of the contract. The play that locks up the reward is to lead a low diamond from dummy and put in the eight. When it loses, South is in position to draw trumps and run the clubs.

Old St. Paul's Property Sold For Store Site

Deed Recorded At Court House

Sale of the old St. Paul's Lutheran Church property at the northeasterly corner of Baltimore and Centre streets became a reality yesterday when the deed for the transaction was filed and recorded at 3:15 p. m. in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

The property was sold by the Vestry of St. Paul's Church to the No. 100 Baltimore Street Corporation, a Maryland corporation whose president is Leon J. Levitz, 212 High Street, Pottstown, Pa.

Stamps attached to the deed indicated that the purchase price for the old church property was about $125,000.

Demolition Soon

Mr. Levitz, who was in Cumberland yesterday to complete the big transaction, said that demolition of the historic old church will start within a few weeks.

In its place will be erected a two-story brick building for two stores. The store at the corner of Baltimore and North Centre streets will have 20-foot frontage on Baltimore Street. A tenant has not yet been obtained for this 20 per cent of the total store area.

The Darling Shop, now located across the street at 123 Baltimore Street, has leased the other 30-foot of first floor frontage and the entire second floor of the building, Mr. Levitz said. Construction is expected to be completed in about six months.

There are no plans for construction of a basement with this new store. There had been some speculation that a store might utilize the basement area at the busy intersection.

Also filed for record yesterday was a quitclaim deed by which the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, on behalf of the public, conveyed any questionable prescriptive rights the public may have to a few feet in front of the old church to the new corporation. The church was not built to the property line and a pavement has been laid on part of the church property.

Attorneys who completed the transaction yesterday were Earl E. Manges, in behalf of the church, and William H. Geppert, this city, and Alvin Weiss, Pottstown, Pa., for the purchaser. Mr. Weiss also is secretary of the new corporation.

Vestrymen Sign

The deed was signed by the pastor, Rev. John F. Sammel, as president of the Vestry of The Lutheran Church, and all 10 living vestrymen, H. Christie Elder, R. Harold Fearer, M. Monroe MacKenzie, James Orr, Mr. Manges, C. Merle Zembower, Ralph F. Frantz, Raymond H. Hewitt, Donald U. Moffett and Howard W. Irwin. The name of Ralph H. Taylor, another vestryman, had been typed onto the deed but it was marked off because he died Sunday, two days before the signing.

The deed showed that this property had been owned by a Lutheran congregation for nearly 153 years. Thomas Beall of Samuel, the town's original developer, deeded the property to George Rizer and John Rice, trustees for the Lutheran congregation of Allegany County, by deed dated September 20, 1806.

The congregation of St. Paul's approved the sale of the old church at a special meeting in the church on October 4, 1957. At that time it was announced that the property would be purchased by the Marx Realty and Improvement Company, Inc., New York City, for $175,000. It was stated then that the Marx firm was acting as agent for the Darling Shop.

Construction of the new St. Paul's Lutheran Church on the site of the old Roman home at Washington and Smallwood streets was started in the late winter of 1958 and is now nearing completion. The congregation moved to the new edifice just before Easter and has been worshipping in the parish hall.

JAMES R. KARNS

Former Local Man's Body Found In Bay

Services for James R. Karns, 34, former local resident who drowned in the Chesapeake Bay last Wednesday, will be conducted Friday at 2 p. m. at the Stein Funeral Home by Rev. W. Randolph Keefe, pastor of Grace Baptist Church. Interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

The body of Mr. Karns was found Monday by a Tidewater Fisheries Commission craft near the mouth of the Chester River.

Mr. Karns, son of Mrs. Violet (Widdows) Karns of 1309 Frederick Street, and the late Terrence Karns, was residing in Pasadena, Md. with his wife, the former Miss Betty Conner. His mother has been employed as cook at the Allegany County Jail for about 10 years.

Dr. Clyde F. Karns, 51, uncle of the victim and Lake Shore, Md. physician, was fishing with his nephew when he fell from their pleasure boat off Love Point, near the Chester River.

The physician threw two life rings and the younger man caught both of them. The doctor then attempted to turn the boat around and pick up his nephew but he had trouble maneuvering in the choppy water. By the time he turned the boat, James had apparently drifted out of the area.

Fruitless searches by the Coast Guard were concentrated over the entire area where Mr. Karns was last seen for several days.

The victim was born in Cumberland and was employed by Bethlehem Steel Corporation as a millwright near Pasadena.

Besides his mother and wife, he is survived by a brother, M. Sgt. Terrance Karns, who is stationed with the Marine Corps at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

The body will be returned to the funeral home, where the family will receive friends today from 7 to 9 p. m. and tomorrow from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

Want A Fallout Shelter? FHA Will Help You Get It

Cold War note: now you can have your very own fallout shelter, and the FHA will help you finance it.

The Maryland Civil Defense Agency said yesterday, in response to inquiries from worried citizens, that the Federal Housing Administration and other agencies will make loans to Marylanders who want to protect themselves from radioactive fallout.

The FHA will make loans up to $3,500 directly to home owners for improvement of property. Rather oddly, shelters come under this category.

FHA formerly limited such improvement loans to $2,500. Loans under $600 have a maturity up to three years and 32 days. Those above $600 can be paid back in a maximum of five years and 32 days.

Loans for fallout shelters are available only on a direct-to-borrower basis, and are not available for inclusion of a shelter in a new house under construction.

In a special announcement, the FHA said:

"The Federal Housing Administration is concerned over the possibility that unscrupulous dealers may set up sales organizations to promote the sale of bomb shelters. It is felt that high pressure operators will resort to 'scare selling' techniques to persuade home owners to purchase inadequate, overpriced and shoddily constructed shelters."

The FHA won't approve or recommend any particular type of shelter, nor will it make any inspection of the completed job.

Judge's Opinion Annuls Deed For Properties

Fraud Is Cited In Transaction

A deed whereby ownership of two properties on Goethe Street was conveyed by a 63-year-old widow to a 36-year-old man without any consideration was annulled yesterday by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris in an opinion filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The equity suit seeking to have the deed annulled was brought by Mrs. Mildred Page Johnson, 404 Goethe Street, against Kenneth M. Kirkpatrick and Nellie D. Kirkpatrick, his wife, 481 Goethe Street.

Mrs. Johnson, through Attorneys Albert A. Doub and Julius E. Schindler, had asked that the deed of last December 29 be annulled and set aside.

Judge Harris concluded his opinion with the statement that the deed will be annulled and set aside on the ground that it was procured by fraud. A decree to that effect will be signed when presented by Mrs. Johnson's attorneys.

In his opinion, Judge Harris explained that Mrs. Johnson, who has been a widow since 1932, owned a ten-room house at 404 Goethe Street in which she rented rooms and a buildnig at 481-83 Goethe Street which was divided into four apartments. Her total income, primarily from rents, was $2,304.50 last year.

Mrs. Johnson valued the 404 Goethe Street property at $8,000 and the other property at $11,500. They are assessed for $8,400. Mrs. Johnson had executed a mortgage on the property to W. Wallace McKaig for $7,000 on December 28, 1953. She testified that it had been reduced to $4,325.18 by January 6.

Judge Harris explained that these Goethe Street properties constituted virtually all of Mrs. Johnson's estate and the income from rents was her principal means of support. He said that the Kirkpatricks came to Cumberland last November 17 and rented Mrs. Johnson's apartment at 481 Goethe Street a week later.

Subsequently, Mrs. Johnson told Mr. Kirkpatrick about her straitened financial condition and the fear that her mortgage might be foreclosed. As a consequence, Mr. Kirkpatrick took Mrs. Johnson to an attorney's office last December 29 where the deed giving the Kirkpatricks title to both properties was signed. Mr. Kirkpatrick assumed payments on the mortgage which then stood at $4,561.15, but gave Mrs. Johnson no consideration.

Mrs. Johnson was under the impression that the property would be reconveyed to her as soon as the mortgage had been refinanced. Judge Harris observed in his opinion that Mrs. Johnson was old beyond her years, had little business ability and poor business judgment.

Attorneys for the Kirkpatricks were Stephen R. Pagenhardt and Walter W. Dawson, both of Oakland.

Farmer Dies Of Gun Wound

A 64-year-old man was found dead of a bullet wound in the head at his farm home near Headsville, Mineral County, W. Va., yesterday afternoon.

Richard Edwin Carskadon was found by his wife, Blanche, who had gone to the farm house to look for him when he failed to return to their new home near Burlington.

Mineral County Prosecuting Attorney Donald Holt said Mr. Carskadon apparently shot himself in the right temple with a .22 rifle. He had been in ill health for several years.

Acting Coroner Madalyn Bazzle summoned a coroner's jury to hold an inquest at her office in Keyser next Tuesday at 10 a. m. (EDT).

Mr. Carskadon is survived by his wife, Mrs. Blanche (Whipp) Carskadon; his mother, Mrs. Jessie Carskadon, Headsville; a daughter, Mrs. Ray Umstot, Headsville; two sons, Richard, RFD 1, Ridgeley, and Garrett, of Luke; two brothers, Tim, Headsville, and Fred, South Bend, Indiana, and four grandchildren.

The body will be at the Markwood Funeral Home in Keyser after 5 p. m. (EDT) today. A funeral service will be held at the funeral home at 2 p. m. tomorrow, with burial in Headsville Cemetery.

Fleming To Honor Leave For Service

Jobs To Be Held Open For Employes

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore F. Fleming said last night he wanted to assure members of his departments, whether probationary or not, that their jobs will be available upon their return from active military service.

The commissioner said he wanted to clarify his position in the matter following a ruling by City Solicitor William Carscaden on Monday that military leave of absence granted to probationers was the same as a resignation.

The opinion was given at the Monday meeting when the Mayor and City Council granted leaves to Officer Roy C. Hawse of the Police Department and John Yost of the Fire Department for two-weeks active training with the Maryland National Guard's medium tank unit. Mr. Carscaden said employes who are on probation are not entitled to pay during their military leave and could possibly lose their jobs. Yost is a probationary fireman. Hawse has been a regular member of the police force for a number of years.

Commissioner Fleming, noting that he has several members in his departments who are members of reserve or National Guard units, said they are all good employes and their "jobs will be protected."

He said he had a great deal of respect for their standing in the Guard and Reserve, and that while he was not refuting Mr. Carscaden's opinion, he wants the men under his jurisdiction to know they will not lose their positions if they ask for military leave of absence.

"As far as I'm concerned it is my baby," Commissioner Fleming stated, "and these men's jobs will be available when they return."

Mayor, Council Take Office In Lonaconing

Robert D. Peebles was sworn into office last night as the new mayor of Lonaconing and then administered the oath to the four councilmen, two of whom are newcomers.

James A. Halloran, deputy clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, gave the oath of office to Mayor Peebles, who had been serving as street commissioner prior to his election as Mayor on May 5.

Mayor Peebles then administered the oath to the four councilmen. They are Benjamin H. Evans Jr., a newcomer, street commissioner; Robert M. Grove, who remains as police commissioner; Benjamin E. Zarger, retained as light and water commissioner, and James Berry, a newcomer, finance commissioner.

The Mayor and Council then filled the various appointive positions for two-year terms effective July 1 and made only one change. Robert B. Thomas, who has served as clerk since June 1955, was not an applicant for reappointment. In a secret ballot, the five town officials then elected Calvin C. James as the new clerk, with three votes. Raymond Miller, the other applicant, had two votes.

Others retained in office were James S. Getty, unopposed for town attorney; Henry Connor, town treasurer; Marshall Fazenbaker, street superintendent; William Torkington, Cumberland, as auditor of the books.

Old St. Paul's Property Sold For Store Site

Deed Recorded At Court House

Sale of the old St. Paul's Lutheran Church property at the northeasterly corner of Baltimore and Centre streets became a reality yesterday when the deed for the transaction was filed and recorded at 3:15 p. m. in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

The property was sold by the Vestry of St. Paul's Church to the No. 100 Baltimore Street Corporation, a Maryland corporation whose president is Leon J. Levitz, 212 High Street, Pottstown, Pa.

Stamps attached to the deed indicated that the purchase price for the old church property was about $125,000.

Demolition Soon

Mr. Levitz, who was in Cumberland yesterday to complete the big transaction, said that demolition of the historic old church will start within a few weeks.

In its place will be erected a two-story brick building for two stores. The store at the corner of Baltimore and North Centre streets will have 20-foot frontage on Baltimore Street. A tenant has not yet been obtained for this 20 per cent of the total store area.

The Darling Shop, now located across the street at 123 Baltimore Street, has leased the other 30-foot of first floor frontage and the entire second floor of the building, Mr. Levitz said. Construction is expected to be completed in about six months.

There are no plans for construction of a basement with this new store. There had been some speculation that a store might utilize the basement area at the busy intersection.

Also filed for record yesterday was a quitclaim deed by which the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, on behalf of the public, conveyed any questionable prescriptive rights the public may have to a few feet in front of the old church to the new corporation. The church was not built to the property line and a pavement has been laid on part of the church property.

Attorneys who completed the transaction yesterday were Earl E. Manges, in behalf of the church, and William H. Geppert, this city, and Alvin Weiss, Pottstown, Pa., for the purchaser. Mr. Weiss also is secretary of the new corporation.

Vestrymen Sign

The deed was signed by the pastor, Rev. John F. Sammel, as president of the Vestry of The Lutheran Church, and all 10 living vestrymen, H. Christie Elder, R. Harold Fearer, M. Monroe MacKenzie, James Orr, Mr. Manges, C. Merle Zembower, Ralph F. Frantz, Raymond H. Hewitt, Donald U. Moffett and Howard W. Irwin. The name of Ralph H. Taylor, another vestryman, had been typed onto the deed but it was marked off because he died Sunday, two days before the signing.

The deed showed that this property had been owned by a Lutheran congregation for nearly 153 years. Thomas Beall of Samuel, the town's original developer, deeded the property to George Rizer and John Rice, trustees for the Lutheran congregation of Allegany County, by deed dated September 20, 1806.

The congregation of St. Paul's approved the sale of the old church at a special meeting in the church on October 4, 1957. At that time it was announced that the property would be purchased by the Marx Realty and Improvement Company, Inc., New York City, for $175,000. It was stated then that the Marx firm was acting as agent for the Darling Shop.

This transaction was not completed, although the Darling Shop still retains 80 per cent of the new store property.

Construction of the new St. Paul's Lutheran Church on the site of the old Roman home at Washington and Smallwood streets was started in the late winter of 1958 and is now nearing completion. The congregation moved to the new edifice just before Easter and has been worshipping in the parish hall.

JAMES R. KARNS

Former Local Man's Body Found In Bay

Services for James R. Karns, 34, former local resident who drowned in the Chesapeake Bay last Wednesday, will be conducted Friday at 2 p. m. at the Stein Funeral Home by Rev. W. Randolph Keefe, pastor of Grace Baptist Church. Interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

The body of Mr. Karns was found Monday by a Tidewater Fisheries Commission craft near the mouth of the Chester River.

Mr. Karns, son of Mrs. Violet (Widdows) Karns of 1309 Frederick Street, and the late Terrence Karns, was residing in Pasadena, Md. with his wife, the former Miss Betty Conner. His mother has been employed as cook at the Allegany County Jail for about 10 years.

Dr. Clyde F. Karns, 51, uncle of the victim and Lake Shore, Md. physician, was fishing with his nephew when he fell from their pleasure boat off Love Point, near the Chester River.

The physician threw two life rings and the younger man caught both of them. The doctor then attempted to turn the boat around and pick up his nephew but he had trouble maneuvering in the choppy water. By the time he turned the boat, James had apparently drifted out of the area.

Fruitless searches by the Coast Guard were concentrated over the entire area where Mr. Karns was last seen for several days.

The victim was born in Cumberland and was employed by Bethlehem Steel Corporation as a millwright near Pasadena.

Besides his mother and wife, he is survived by a brother, M. Sgt. Terrance Karns, who is stationed with the Marine Corps at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

The body will be returned to the funeral home, where the family will receive friends today from 7 to 9 p. m. and tomorrow from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

Want A Fallout Shelter? FHA Will Help You Get It

Cold War note: now you can have your very own fallout shelter, and the FHA will help you finance it.

The Maryland Civil Defense Agency said yesterday, in response to inquiries from worried citizens, that the Federal Housing Administration and other agencies will make loans to Marylanders who want to protect themselves from radioactive fallout.

The FHA will make loans up to $3,500 directly to home owners for improvement of property. Rather oddly, shelters come under this category.

FHA formerly limited such improvement loans to $2,500. Loans under $600 have a maturity up to three years and 32 days. Those above $600 can be paid back in a maximum of five years and 32 days.

Loans for fallout shelters are available only on a direct-to-borrower basis, and are not available for inclusion of a shelter in a new house under construction.

The FHA, meanwhile, urges that people who want to build shelters get in touch first with their Civil Defense office for recommended construction details and minimum standards for equipping the shelter.

In a special announcement, the FHA said:

"The Federal Housing Administration is concerned over the possibility that unscrupulous dealers may set up sales organizations to promote the sale of bomb shelters. It is felt that high pressure operators will resort to 'scare selling' techniques to persuade home owners to purchase inadequate, overpriced and shoddily constructed shelters."

The FHA won't approve or recommend any particular type of shelter, nor will it make any inspection of the completed job.

Judge's Opinion Annuls Deed For Properties

Fraud Is Cited In Transaction

A deed whereby ownership of two properties on Goethe Street was conveyed by a 63-year-old widow to a 36-year-old man without any consideration was annulled yesterday by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris in an opinion filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The equity suit seeking to have the deed annulled was brought by Mrs. Mildred Page Johnson, 404 Goethe Street, against Kenneth M. Kirkpatrick and Nellie D. Kirkpatrick, his wife, 481 Goethe Street.

Mrs. Johnson, through Attorneys Albert A. Doub and Julius E. Schindler, had asked that the deed of last December 29 be annulled and set aside.

Judge Harris concluded his opinion with the statement that the deed will be annulled and set aside on the ground that it was procured by fraud. A decree to that effect will be signed when presented by Mrs. Johnson's attorneys.

In his opinion, Judge Harris explained that Mrs. Johnson, who has been a widow since 1932, owned a ten-room house at 404 Goethe Street in which she rented rooms and a buildnig at 481-83 Goethe Street which was divided into four apartments. Her total income, primarily from rents, was $2,304.50 last year.

Mrs. Johnson valued the 404 Goethe Street property at $8,000 and the other property at $11,500. They are assessed for $8,400. Mrs. Johnson had executed a mortgage on the property to W. Wallace McKaig for $7,000 on December 28, 1953. She testified that it had been reduced to $4,325.18 by January 6.

Judge Harris explained that these Goethe Street properties constituted virtually all of Mrs. Johnson's estate and the income from rents was her principal means of support. He said that the Kirkpatricks came to Cumberland last November 17 and rented Mrs. Johnson's apartment at 481 Goethe Street a week later.

Subsequently, Mrs. Johnson told Mr. Kirkpatrick about her straitened financial condition and the fear that her mortgage might be foreclosed. As a consequence, Mr. Kirkpatrick took Mrs. Johnson to an attorney's office last December 29 where the deed giving the Kirkpatricks title to both properties was signed. Mr. Kirkpatrick assumed payments on the mortgage which then stood at $4,561.15, but gave Mrs. Johnson no consideration.

Mrs. Johnson was under the impression that the property would be reconveyed to her as soon as the mortgage had been refinanced. Judge Harris observed in his opinion that Mrs. Johnson was old beyond her years, had little business ability and poor business judgment.

Attorneys for the Kirkpatricks were Stephen R. Pagenhardt and Walter W. Dawson, both of Oakland.

James A. Halloran, deputy clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, gave the oath of office to Mayor Peebles, who had been serving as street commissioner prior to his election as Mayor on May 5.

Mayor Peebles then administered the oath to the four councilmen. They are Benjamin H. Evans Jr., a newcomer, street commissioner; Robert M. Grove, who remains as police commissioner; Benjamin E. Zarger, retained as light and water commissioner, and James Berry, a newcomer, finance commissioner.

The Mayor and Council then filled the various appointive positions for two-year terms effective July 1 and made only one change. Robert B. Thomas, who has served as clerk since June 1955, was not an applicant for reappointment. In a secret ballot, the five town officials then elected Calvin C. James as the new clerk, with three votes. Raymond Miller, the other applicant, had two votes.

Others retained in office were James S. Getty, unopposed for town attorney; Henry Connor, town treasurer; Marshall Fazenbaker, street superintendent; William Torkington, Cumberland, as auditor of the books.

Mr. Connor received four votes for treasurer as retiring Mayor Wilmoth F. Garlitz got the other vote. For street superintendent, Ronald Nicol received one vote to Mr. Fazenbaker's four. Robert Lemon, Roy Wilson and Lee F. Miller, other applicants for the job, got no votes.

The town officials also adopted a slight increase in the wage scale of town employes, effective July 1. Police officers were increased $5 a month to a top of $245 a month. The street superintendent's pay was hiked five cents an hour to $1.55 an hour. Street laborers were increased from $1.25 to $1.30 an hour. Extra policemen also were assured of $1.30 an hour.
